The Institute of Contemporary Psychoanalysis is a private postsecondary nonprofit institution approved to operate by the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education (BPPE).

ICP is also approved to train qualified academicians in psychoanalysis under the California Research Psychoanalyst law regulated by the Medical Board of California.

Notice to Prospective Degree Program Students

This institution is approved by the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education to offer degree programs. To continue to offer degree programs, this institution must meet the following requirements:

- Become institutionally accredited by an accrediting agency recognized by the United States Department of Education, with the scope of the accreditation covering at least one degree program.
- Achieve accreditation candidacy or pre-accreditation, as defined in regulations, by July 1, 2017, and full accreditation by July 1, 2020.

If this institution stops pursuing accreditation, the following will happen:
- The institution must stop all enrollment in its degree programs, and
- Provide a teach-out to finish the educational program or provide a refund.

An institution that fails to comply with accreditation requirements by the required dates shall have its approval to offer degree programs automatically suspended.

As a prospective student, you are encouraged to review this catalog prior to signing an enrollment agreement. You are also encouraged to review the School Performance Fact Sheet, which must be provided to you prior to signing an enrollment agreement.

Any questions a student may have regarding this catalog that have not been satisfactorily answered by the institution may be directed to the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education at:

2535 Capitol Oaks Drive, Suite 400, Sacramento, CA 95833 or P.O. Box 980818, West Sacramento, CA 95798-0818

A student or any member of the public may file a complaint about this institution with the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education by calling 888-370-7589 or by completing a complaint form, which can be obtained on the bureau’s internet Web site: www.bppe.ca.gov.

NOTICE CONCERNING TRANSFERABILITY OF CREDITS AND CREDENTIALS EARNED AT OUR INSTITUTION:

The transferability of credits you earn at the Institute of Contemporary Psychoanalysis is at the complete discretion of an institution to which you may seek to transfer. Acceptance of the Psy.D., Ph.D., or certificate you earn in the ICP Psychoanalytic Training Program is also at the complete discretion of the institution to which you may seek to transfer. If the course credits or units that you earn in the ICP Psychoanalytic Training Program are not accepted at the institution to which you seek to transfer, you may be required to repeat some or all of your coursework at that institution. For this reason, you should make certain that your attendance at this institution will meet your educational goals. This may include contacting an institution to which you may seek to transfer after attending the ICP Psychoanalytic Training Program to determine if your course units for the Psy.D., Ph.D. or certificate will transfer.

ARTICULATION AGREEMENT
ICP has not entered into any agreement with any other educational institution regarding transfer of units or credit.

NOTICE: ICP is not accredited. A degree program that is unaccredited or a degree from an unaccredited institution is not recognized for some employment positions, including, but not limited to, positions with the State of California. Students enrolled in an unaccredited institution are not eligible for federal financial aid programs. ICP does not participate in federal and state financial aid programs. ICP does not prepare students for licensure and all accepted students must already be licensed.

ICP does not have a current pending petition in bankruptcy, is not operating as a debtor in possession, and has not filed a petition within the preceding 5 years that resulted in reorganization under Chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code (11 U.S.C. Sec. 1101 et seq.).
Who We Are

VISION STATEMENT

At its formation in 1991, ICP embraced the founding members’ philosophy that a vital and inclusive analytic Institute should comprise the tenets of academic freedom, participatory democracy and the diversity of contemporary theory. ICP strives to maintain these values as we develop not only as a school with walls, but an influence beyond those walls with a local, national and international presence. We embrace the value of diversity and seek always to enhance it. Academically, we maintain our uniqueness by remaining innovative and continually open to the development and dissemination of contemporary psychoanalytic concepts. The diversity and participation of our members, candidates, students and community is the cornerstone of our Institute and our future.

In sum, ICP endeavors to monitor the ethical, theoretical and evidence based developments in the practice of mental health care delivery both in the United States and internationally for the benefit of our trainees, members and the larger professional community.

MISSION STATEMENT

ICP is a diverse community comprised of members, candidates, students, corresponding members and staff who partner with local and extended communities to provide cutting edge forums for psychoanalytic education and thinking. ICP members pay dues and candidates and students pay tuition. ICP is committed to integrating psychoanalytic psychology with other psychological treatments.

We strive to promote an environment of free inquiry, a sense of community, a culture of diversity, inclusion, invitation, dignity and respect for the therapeutic process.

This is accomplished through the academic curriculum, which is updated to coincide with trends in the larger psychological science realm. As well, training methods are individualized to the needs of diverse trainees. In order to remain current, we rely upon emerging technologies.

GOALS

Short term:

- Provide forums for intellectual discussion
- Develop a long distance learning program
- Increase community outreach to enhance diversity
• Increase our presence and usefulness to the wider healthcare community
• Increase member participation through in-house events Long term:
• Explore and support avenues for intellectual contributions and research
• Develop partnerships with universities and other academic organizations

Goals of Psychoanalytic Training at ICP

i) Acquire the skill to competently psychoanalyze a range of patients with a variety of diagnoses and socio-cultural circumstances.

ii) Acquire enough practice and supervision during training to recognize how psychoanalyst and patient both participate in the analytic process together.

iii) Understand the history of psychoanalysis and psychoanalytic theory.

iv) Learn about contemporary psychoanalytic theory and approaches in depth.

v) Understanding of the diverse theory and practice of contemporary psychoanalysis

vi) Acquire the skill of expressing both theoretical and clinical ideas in writing.

vii) Demonstrate clinical skill and understanding of basic psychoanalytic principles through their performance in supervision, written case reports, seminars and final paper/project.

Application Requirements, Policies & Procedures

Requirements to be considered for admission to ICP’s Psy.D. Program

I. Applicant has completed an advanced graduate degree in a mental health specialty: Ph.D. or Psy.D. in psychology, MSW (Masters in Social Work), MFT (Marriage & Family Therapy), MD/Psychiatry.

A. Research psychoanalysts must have a Ph.D. in an academic discipline and must become approved by the Medical Board of California for a research psychoanalyst license.

B. Applicant must be currently licensed to practice as a mental health practitioner within the state that they are licensed.

C. Applicant’s license must be current and unencumbered by any current complaint or investigation.

D. Applicant’s transcript must show grades that illustrate interest in the mental health field, ability to learn and communicate what they have learned, intellectual capability demonstrated through their grades.

E. Applicant must have current malpractice insurance.

F. Applicant must show through his/her recommendations, references, personal autobiography, and admissions interviews that they would be capable of understanding psychoanalytic concepts, achieving the goals of our program, and operating in a collegial manner as a classmate. We look for:
1. Enough maturity to allow for an openness to a variety of perspectives
2. Enough experience to be able to comprehend psychoanalytic concepts within a clinical process.
3. Ability to be self-reflective and a desire for personal exploration and growth
4. An interest in learning within the context of a cohort of peers and within a greater community.

II. Candidate’s application is received and sent to committee chair(s)

A. The Admissions Committee Chair reviews the application and checks to see if it is complete, e.g., the checklist of documentation is included in the application.
B. The application fee has been sent in.
C. Committee Chair contacts each applicant by email, and reviews the procedures for the four required interviews and informs the applicant of the names and phone numbers of each interviewer so that they can contact them and schedule their interviews.
D. Full-time applicants are also informed that they are required to be in a 4 times a week analysis by the first day of class. Part-time applicants are informed that they need to start twice a week therapy with an ICP training and supervising analyst.
E. Applicants are informed of the admission’s process timeline.
   1. After the 4 interviews are completed, the Admissions committee meets to discuss and vote to accept/deny the applicant based on their application, references and interviews.
   2. The Admission Committee Chair then takes the recommendation of the Admissions committee to the ICP Board of Directors for their vote.
   3. Depending on the outcome of the Board, the applicant is notified that they have been accepted or rejected for admission to ICP.

III. Admissions Committee Chair sets up all of the interviews required by contacting ICP analysts in good standing, to evaluate and report on the suitability and adequacy of each applicant for admission to the ICP analytic program.

A. Each ICP interviewer is sent a packet outlining the issues to be discussed.
B. After the interview is completed, the interviewer is to provide a written report outlining the suitability of the applicant based on their understanding of the requirements of the analytic program at ICP.
C. These reports are confidential and are used solely for the Admissions Committee evaluation.

IV. The Admission Chair sets up committee meetings

A. At each meeting the committee members read and evaluate each completed application packet, which includes all references and all interview reports.
B. The committee then assesses and evaluates the competency and suitability for each applicant to attend the ICP analytic program.
C. A vote is taken for acceptance or denial of each candidate.
D. The Admission’s Chair reports to the ICP Board the Admissions committee’s decisions.
E. Based on the ICP Board of Directors vote, the applicant is informed as to their acceptance or rejection.

V. Problems that can arise in the Admission's process
A. All applicants MUST be licensed prior to being admitted to the ICP 4-year analytic program.

B. What happens if there is a negative reference?
   1. The person who wrote the reference is contacted to ask for further information.
   2. Based on that information, either the negative aspect will be understood and discussed or another reference will be requested for this applicant.

C. What happens if there is a negative interview report?
   1. The interviewer will be contacted in order to get a clearer understanding of what informed the assessment of this interviewer.
   2. Based on that information, either the negative report will be discussed and understood or another interview will be required for this applicant.

Facilities

ICP is a suite of offices that contains a large conference room that can seat up to 100, 5 seminar rooms, 3 offices, 2 storage rooms and a kitchen. It is approximately 5126 rentable square feet.

We provide equipment for videoconferencing, as well as continuous online access to psychoanalytic historical and contemporary literature.

Library

Since the early 2000's, ICP has used Psychoanalytic Electronic Publishing (PEP) and it is now ICP's primary library resource. Every member and candidate, once accepted into the Institute is provided access to PEP. Presently PEP includes access to Psychoanalytic classical books, psychoanalytic journals and videos. A vital aspect of the program is its excellent search engine, which allows great opportunity for research. As a developing project, PEP acquired the backing of the American Psychoanalytic Association and the Institute of Psychoanalysis (London). PEP has grown to offer a rich digital archive for psychoanalysis. Early in PEP's history, this data virtual library was available on CD's only. Some years later PEP became available via the Internet to selected universities. At that time, no psychoanalytic institute was privy to PEP via the internet as it was thought that they could not guarantee sufficient security for the program. In the early 2000's, ICP negotiated with David Tuckett of PEP to allow our institute to be a test model to expand services to psychoanalytic institutes as ICP was able to demonstrate its ability to have its own secure server. The experiment was successful and now many institutes have access to this digital archive.
Since ICP is not a full-time educational facility, and is non-residential, ICP maintains no responsibility to find or assist a student in finding housing.

Financial Policies & Procedures

ICP does not receive any federal or state financial aid for its students. We operate on student tuition and member dues. Students who need financial assistance can 1) defer their tuition and immediately begin making monthly payments on that or 2) apply for a scholarship from ICP's few private scholarship funds (i.e. Daphne Stolorow Scholarship or the Ethnic Minority Scholarship Fund). In order to defer tuition or apply for a scholarship, students must submit a formal request and a financial statement for aid to the financial aid committee.

If a student obtains a loan to pay for an educational program, the student will have to repay the full amount of the loan plus interest, less the amount of any refund, and that, if the student receives federal student financial aid funds, the student is entitled to a refund of the moneys not paid from federal financial aid funds. (CEC §94909(a)(11))

Costs of Training (also see Enrollment Contract in appendix I on page 77.)

Total charges one year of attendance: $3000 tuition/$100 admin fee per year for full-time students. Part-time students will pay tuition of $1500/$100 admin fee, while they are part-time students. When they matriculate to full-time, they will pay full-time tuition. The cost per unit is (for both full and part-time programs is: $375.

The total amount for all fees, charges and services the candidate is obligated to pay to ICP for the course of educational service is:

- $12,400 for the 32 units (420 hours) of the Psy.D program (tuition)
- Yearly tuition fees must be paid before the start of classes. All fees are subject to periodic review.
- Fees for personal analysis and supervision are established privately between analyst or supervisor and candidate for the required:
  - 3 supervised cases of 1 1/2 years each (65-70 hours) are required.
  - 18 months or 300 hours of 4 times per week of psychoanalysis with an ICP Training and Supervising Analyst is required.
  - Personal psychoanalysis and case supervision are not covered by tuition fee: candidate pays fee on an individual basis; all fees with training analyst and supervisors are negotiated and paid between the training and supervising analyst and candidate privately without ICP's involvement.

Withdrawal, Cancellation and Refund Policies:

A. STUDENT'S RIGHT TO CANCEL
The student has the right to cancel the enrollment agreement and obtain a full refund of all tuition paid through attendance at the first class session, or the seventh day after enrollment, whichever is later. You may cancel this enrollment agreement and obtain a refund by providing written notice to The President(s), ICP, 10780 Santa Monica Blvd., Suite 350, Los Angeles, California 90025-4720, by the following date: _____________________. See refund policy below.

B. REFUND POLICY
Students who withdraw by the first class session, or the seventh day after enrollment, whichever is later, will be refunded all tuition paid. After the first week of class, but before 60% of the course is completed, tuition earned by the Institute will be calculated on a prorated basis. After 60% of the course is completed, there is no refund.

If the student has received federal student financial aid funds, the student is entitled to a refund of moneys not paid from federal student financial aid program funds.

A definition of the enrollment period at ICP is that each semester or session is a separate enrollment/contract for the candidate and the total of all the enrollment agreements (contracts) equal the total courses and units necessary to meet all course requirements for the degree.

Refund of Tuition
Refunds are processed only upon written notice or discontinuance and application for a withdrawal and refund process has been processed. The refund amount is calculated by using the refund formula above and takes approximately 30 days to process as in accordance with California Education Codes.

Refund Explanation
The prorated amount is calculated as follows: The tuition fee is divided by the total weeks of the enrollment period, and this quotient is the weekly program charge. In order to get the amount of tuition owed to ICP the weekly program charge is by the weeks the student attended the program.

Refund Example
If the enrollment agreement is for 4 units the agreement will equal 52.5 clock hours. If the candidate withdraws and has only completed 20 hours of the 52.5 hours of the agreement, the candidate has 32.5 remaining hours on this agreement and it is considered a pro-rated refund. Here is how the calculation of this student's refund would work:

In order to get to the refund amount you take the semester tuition fee of $1,500.00 and divide this amount by the 52.5 hours the candidate enrolled to attend on this agreement. This amount which is $28.58 is the per hour charge, you must now multiply this figure of $28.50 by the 20 hours that the candidate attended on this agreement. This is the amount the candidate owes the college for their attendance. The amount in this example is $571.60, if the candidate had paid the institute $1,500.00 on this enrollment agreement, their refund would be $928.40.

Effect of Refund on Promissory Notes:
If the ICP is the holder of any promissory note(s) from the student, the ICP shall adjust any promissory note(s) to reflect the new total owing to the ICP. However, both student and ICP agree that the terms and conditions of any promissory note(s) shall remain unchanged, unless the refund causes the entire amount of the promissory note(s) to be refunded, in which case the promissory note(s) shall be discharged.

Student Tuition Recovery Fee (STRF):

You must pay the state-imposed assessment for the Student Tuition Recovery Fund (STRF) if all of the following applies to you:

1. You are a student in an educational program, who is a California resident, or are enrolled in a residency program, and prepay all of part of your tuition either by cash, guaranteed student loans, or personal loans, and your total charges are not paid by any third-party payer such as an employer, government program or other payer unless you have a separate agreement to repay the third party.

You are not eligible for protection from the STRF and you are not required to pay the STRF assessment if either of the following applies:

1. You are not a California resident, or are not enrolled in a residency program, or
2. Your total charges are paid by a third party, such as an employer, government program or other payer, and you have no separate agreement to repay the third party.

The State of California created the Student Tuition Recovery Fund (STRF) to relieve or mitigate economic losses suffered by students in educational programs who are California residents, or are enrolled in a residency program attending certain schools regulated by the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education.

You may be eligible for STRF if you are a California resident or are enrolled in a residency program, prepaid tuition, paid STRF assessment, and suffered an economic loss as a result of any of the following:

1. The school closed before the course of instruction was completed.
2. The school's failure to pay refunds or charges on behalf of a student to a third party for license fees or any other purpose, or to provide equipment or materials for which a charge was collected within 180 days before the closure of the school.
3. The school's failure to pay or reimburse loan proceeds under a federally guaranteed student loan program as required by law or to pay or reimburse proceeds received by the school prior to closure in excess of tuition and other costs.
4. There was a material failure to comply with the Act or the Division within 30-days before the school closed or, if the material failure began earlier than 30-days prior to closure, the period determined by the Bureau.

5. An inability after diligent efforts to prosecute, prove, and collect on a judgment against the institution for a violation of the Act.

However, no claim can be paid to any student without a social security number or taxpayer identification number.

This is a state mandated fee as required by CA Education Code 94810(a)(10), please see www.bppe.ca.gov for current rate percentages and info on refund requests.

The STRF is non-refundable. The current STRF fee is $0.00.

If a student obtains a loan to pay for an educational program, the student will have to repay the full amount of the loan, plus interest, less the amount of any refund. If the student received federal student financial aid funds, the student is entitled to a refund of the moneys not paid from federal financial aid funds.

If a student is eligible for a loan guaranteed by the federal or state government and the student defaults on the loan, both of the following may occur:

1) The federal or state government or a loan guarantee agency may take action against the student, including applying any income tax refund to which the person is entitled to reduce the balance owed on the loan.
2) The student may not be eligible for any other federal student financial aid at another institution or other government assistance until the loan is repaid.

PROBATION/DISMISSAL POLICY: ICP candidates are subject to dismissal for the following reasons:

1) Non-payment of tuition: students may not begin a new school year if tuition for the former year has not been paid, unless the treasurer has approved a financial plan for payment. Students may not begin a new semester without payment of that semester’s tuition. If the student is not able to work out a payment plan with the treasurer and keep current on that plan, they will be advised that unless this is accomplished by the end of the semester, they will be unable to continue. Once they have become current on their tuition, they are allowed to start classes again.

2) Candidates are required to complete at least 70% of each class. If over the course of 2 years, a candidate does not complete 2 core courses, or 3 elective courses, the candidate will be put on probation and will formulate a plan with the CPC committee to complete the courses. If the candidate continues to exhibit poor class attendance (less that 70%), the candidate will be dismissed after 4 uncompleted classes.

3) Candidates must be in four times per week analysis for a period of at least 300 hours. The Candidate, on a monthly basis, is responsible for ensuring that the Training Analyst accurately records the Candidate’s personal analysis hours, and that the records are submitted to the Candidate’s Advisor. If the candidate is unable to demonstrate that he/she is completing the required analysis, then the candidate will be asked to go on leave of absence until he/she actively resumes the required training analysis.

4) If a candidate’s license for clinical practice is suspended or revoked, depending upon the reason, either the candidate will be put on Leave of Absence until his/her license is reinstated, or the candidate will be dismissed. The Candidate Progression Committee and the Board will decide which action to take based on the violation and the report of the licensing board.

5) If a student engages in disruptive, disrespectful and/or harassing behavior while engaged in ICP classes or programs, the Ethics Committee will document and investigate the causes and consequences of this behavior with the student, and will sensitively and with respect, develop a plan for working with the student and the context. If after 2 attempts to work individually and contextually with the problematic issue, then the Candidate Progression Committee will discuss and decide on a probation strategy. If the probation strategy is ineffective within 2 months, then the Candidate Progression Committee and Board will rule on dismissal.

RETENTION OF RECORDS:

All candidate/applicant files are maintained at 10780 Santa Monica Boulevard, Suite 350, in a locked copy/records room. Access to these records is restricted to the Program Coordinator & Administrator (ICP employees). Other individuals who have access to these files are the President or Co-Presidents of the institute, the Chair of the Candidate Progression Committee, the Board Treasurer, and the CME/Credentialing Committee Chair.

The Institute’s membership is largely comprised of Institute graduates. The physical copies of candidate/student files are scanned, and the resulting electronic files are created in that database which is password protected. Access to this database is strictly restricted to the Program Administrator and Program Coordinator. Academic and financial files are kept together in the student file.

Physical and electronic files are maintained for 7 years after the completion of a candidate/student’s degree, and as long as said graduate retains membership at the Institute. If a graduate chooses to discontinue membership, only electronic copies of their files are saved. We are currently working to get all files, past and present, electronic. Transcripts in any form are kept permanently.

ICP also maintains records of the name, address, e-mail address, and telephone number of each student enrolled in a password-protected database with restricted access.
STUDENT SERVICES:

Candidate Organization Committee (COC):
The purpose of the COC is to empower students by providing them with a student run support organization authorized to address their concerns. The COC is a candidate run organization that attends to candidate issues, creates candidate programs and supports candidate rights, needs and projects. Candidates elect the Chairs of the COC, and any student is welcome to be a member of this committee. Any student concern can be addressed by this committee, and then brought to the board or any other committee if necessary. This organization also may develop conferences and programs focused specifically on student needs and interests.

Candidate Advisor:

The Candidate Progression Committee (CPC) assigns each candidate an advisor. The purpose of the advisor is to help the candidate to progress throughout his or her program by keeping track of their coursework, analysis hours, and supervision hours and case reports. The candidate is free to replace his/her advisor at anytime.

Ombudsman:

The Ombudsman Office is to be a resource for the entire analytic community by providing opportunities for processing ideas or concerns that may arise pertaining to the institutional life of its analytic program. Its primary role is offering a safe and confidential milieu for facilitating solutions to concerns and issues raised by candidates, members, faculty, and staff. The intent of the Ombudsman Office is to help build community, to strengthen opportunities for enriching interaction within the analytic program.

Some examples of confidential involvement of the Ombudsman Office:

- A candidate may have a difficulty in a particular class and feels reluctant to discuss this for fear of repercussions or worry about not being heard. He or she can contact any member of the group whose desire is to listen and to assist the candidate in resolving the situation. It may involve simply helping the candidate to refine her concern or with the candidate’s permission, one member of the group may meet with the instructor or facilitate a meeting with both instructor and candidate to address the concern.

- An advisor in working with her advisee is stymied as to how to address a concern. The advisor can bring this concern to the Ombudsman Office to determine how best he or she may move forward to assist the advisee.

- We are available to handle concerns and issues of various kinds, in confidentiality, such as can arise between students and instructors that are for various reasons not amenable to being addressed elsewhere.

• Any person engaged in any aspect of the analytic program may use the Ombudsman Office as a confidential resource.
• ICP’s Sexual Harassment and Harassment Policy, and Non-Discrimination Policy are located in Appendix XXII (p. 380).

SELF-MONITORING PROCEDURES:
State Regulations:
• The Chair of the CME/Credentialing committee is the designee to monitor the institute’s compliance with current state regulations as it pertains to Private Postsecondary institutions.
• The Designee will subscribe with BPPE to receive updates of new legislation, and other notices as pertains to the institute being current and compliant.
  http://www.bppe.ca.gov/forms_pubs/subscriptions
• The Marketing Chair and committee will review all advertisements related to the programs and ensure that the advertising content accurately represents the institute’s mission, goals, and compliant with state and BPPE regulations, etc.

Candidate Progress:
The Program Administrator will be responsible for ensuring candidates progress is documented as per the institute’s candidate progression manual:
• The Program Administrator will ensure that records and transcripts are maintained and available to candidates.
• The Program Administrator will track the candidate’s academic progress by listing the classes a candidate is enrolled in and the course units per class.
• The Program Administrator will request reports from the candidates, supervisors, instructors, and advisors as per the requirements listed in the Candidate Progression Manual.
• The Program Administrator will review candidate progress, candidate files, and other candidate related matters with the Chair of the Candidate Progression Committee.
• Candidate advisors will be sent all analyst reports, supervision reports, and class evaluations for each student that they advise to ensure the candidate is progressing as expected.

Candidate Complaint Procedures:
The Ombudsman Office is to be a resource for the entire analytic community by providing opportunities for processing ideas or concerns that may arise pertaining to the institutional life of its analytic program. Its primary role is offering a safe and confidential milieu for facilitating solutions to concerns and issues raised by candidates, members, faculty, and staff. The intent of the Ombudsman Office is to help build community, to strengthen opportunities for enriching interaction within the analytic program.

Record Keeping:
• The Chair (designee) along with the Program Administrator and Program Coordinator will conduct quarterly audit of candidate (student) files.
• The Program Coordinator will maintain a record of malpractice insurance and license expirations of candidates (students) and members. Candidates and members will be notified of their pending license and malpractice insurance renewals.

- Program Coordinator will ensure receipt of current and active copies of licenses and malpractice insurance.
- The Program Coordinator will ensure that records and transcripts are maintained and available for all other programs and workshops offered at ICP.
- The Program Coordinator will track the participants' attendance by listing the classes a candidate is enrolled in and the course units per class.
- The Program Coordinator will request Evaluation reports from the participants, facilitators, and instructors.
- The current transcript with yearly updates will be sent to each candidate so that candidates can verify accuracy and track their hours.

Facilities/Equipment

The Program Coordinator and Program Administrator will be responsible for the setting up of equipment (Video, Zoom technology) on an as needed basis contingent upon the class requirements.

Fiduciary

- To maintain fiscal integrity, the Treasurer will present the Revenue and Expenses Statement, Balance Sheet, and other financial matters to the Board on a monthly basis.
- The Treasurer will communicate candidate financial hardship to the Board and forward information to the ICP Loans and Scholarship Committee, which is primarily funded by donations, and fundraising endeavors from within the ICP community.
- With the monthly-recorded Board minutes, the ICP community is consistently updated of the Institute’s financial status.
- The Institute’s Treasurer and bookkeeper/certified public accountant review all financial transactions conducted at the Institute by inspecting cash receipts, invoices, and credit card statements. Retention of an external auditor ensures ICP maintains fiscal responsibility.

Low Fee Supervision:

Each Training and Supervising Analyst must offer one low fee supervision slot ($75) to ICP candidates.

Low Fee Referral Service:

Although our candidates tend to have active practices from which training cases emerge and/or a referral network for referrals of training cases, sometimes candidates have difficulties finding a training case at a particular point. ICP has a committee that channels phone calls from individuals seeking low fee psychoanalysis to interested candidates.
I. FULL-TIME ADMISSION AND SUBSEQUENT PROGRESSION

A. Full-time Weekly Candidates

Full-time candidacy may be contingent on the following expectations:

1. The Candidate will enroll in all required first-year courses, with continued enrolment until the required 32 units have been completed. Upon completion of all required units, the Candidate may enroll in classes as desired.\(^1\)

2. The Candidate will begin, or continue an existing schedule of, full-time personal psychoanalysis (minimum 4 sessions per week) with a Training Analyst approved by ICP.

3. The Candidate must begin that full-time personal psychoanalysis before the first day of class in September.

4. Provided personal psychoanalysis is full time and ongoing, control cases under the supervision of an ICP-approved supervisor may be initiated at any time.

B. Full-time Weekend Candidates

1. The Candidate will enroll in all required first-year courses; with continued enrollment of at least 4 units per semester 2 (10 weeks = 2 units; 5 weeks = 1 unit) until the required 32 units have been completed. Upon completion of all required units, the Candidate may enroll in classes as desired.

2. The Candidate will begin, or continue an existing schedule of, full-time personal psychoanalysis (minimum 4 sessions per week) with a Training Analyst approved by ICP.

3. The Candidate must begin that full-time personal psychoanalysis before the first day of class in September.

4. Provided the personal psychoanalysis is full time and ongoing, control cases under the supervision of an ICP-approved supervisor may be initiated at any time.

C. Full-time Candidacy –Exceptions

In some instances, there are exceptions to the expectations outlined above.

1. A Candidate may be in full-time personal psychoanalysis with an ICP member who, at the time of the Candidate’s entry-level matriculation, is not yet an ICP-approved Training Analyst. In such cases, the Candidate may petition the Board of Directors, through the CPC, for a waiver before classes begin in September. If the waiver is granted, the

\(^1\) Full-time weekly Candidate: 15 weeks = 2 units; 7/8 weeks = 1 unit

\(^2\) Full-time weekend Candidate: 10 weeks = 2 units; 5 weeks = 1 unit
Candidate’s current analyst would be permitted to serve as the Training Analyst for that Candidate. If the waiver is refused, the Candidate must wait to begin matriculation until his or her analyst achieves Training Analyst status. Regardless, the Candidate must begin full time personal psychoanalysis with an ICP-approved Training Analyst before classes begin in September.

2. A Candidate may be in full time personal psychoanalysis with an analyst who is two years post graduation at another approved psychoanalytic institute. That analyst must be willing to seek admission to ICP as a new member and, if accepted, submit an application for Training Analyst status at ICP to be approved by the ICP Board of Directors. The Candidate cannot begin matriculation at ICP until the Candidate’s analyst is accepted for both membership and Training Analyst status. If the analyst is accepted, that analyst must participate in a monthly study group to sustain the Training Analyst status. This is a five-year commitment. When all of these conditions are fulfilled, the Candidate may then matriculate and continue with their current analyst.

3. Prior to matriculation at ICP, the Candidate may have previously completed coursework as part of psychoanalytic training at a psychoanalytic institute approved by the Board of Directors. In such cases, the Candidate, through his/her Advisor, may petition the Candidate Progression Committee (CPC) to receive credit for coursework that is equivalent to that required or accepted at ICP. Regardless of the amount of training previously acquired, the Candidate must have, at a minimum, one year of residence in the ICP psychoanalytic training program in order to graduate from ICP’s training program. Credit earned by Independent Study may not exceed 25 percent in one year.

4. A Candidate may have previously completed analytic cases under the supervision of a Training Analyst while receiving analytic training at a Board-approved institute for psychoanalytic training other than ICP. In such cases, no more than two completed supervised cases may be considered for credit at ICP; at a minimum, one such analytic case must have been supervised for 18 months by an ICP-approved supervising analyst during training at ICP.

5. When exceptions are requested, the Candidate’s application for training is considered first by the Admissions Committee and then by the Board of Directors. Requests for waivers must be submitted in writing to the CPC by the Candidate, and final approval must be granted by the Board of Directors.

I. MATRICULATION – FULL-TIME CANDIDATES

A. Assignment of Advisor

Following admission to ICP, the CPC assigns an Advisor to each Candidate. Advisors may remain assigned to the Candidate until his/her graduation. A Candidate may request a new Advisor at any time without explanation or justification. To do so, the Candidate secures the agreement of the preferred Advisor, informs the Administration and the former Advisor of the change, and ensures that the former Advisor forwards all applicable records to the Administration.
B. Assessing the Training Level and Status of the Candidate

1. Training Analysis

A Candidate in full-time training is not permitted to begin course work at ICP before the initiation of a full personal psychoanalysis with an ICP-approved Training Analyst. The personal psychoanalysis required is a minimum of 4 sessions per week for a period total of at least 300 hours. The Training Analyst must report to the Candidate's Advisor on a yearly basis the dates and frequency of the Candidate’s personal psychoanalytic sessions. When an interruption in the required frequency exists (not attributable to common vacations or illness) the following actions must be taken: the Training Analyst notifies the Candidate's Advisor, who in turn, will communicate with the Candidate regarding the reasons for the interruption and the Candidate's professional aspirations. No Candidate may continue in training before the 300-hour requirement is completed without participating in a personal psychoanalysis with an ICP-approved Training Analyst. Following the completion of the 300-hour requirement, there will be no further recording of the Candidate's analysis.

However, if a Candidate is still in the process of completing one or more control cases after the 300-hour requirement, the Candidate must remain in analysis for a minimum of 2 sessions per week until the control case(s) are completed.

Recording forms will be distributed on an annual basis to each Candidate. The Candidate, on a monthly basis, is responsible for ensuring that the Training Analyst accurately records the Candidate’s personal analysis hours, and that the records are submitted to the Candidate’s Advisor. Certification of Analytic Hours template is in appendix III, page 78. The ‘Notes on the Certification of Analytic Hours’ form is in appendix IV, page 79.

C. Coursework (More in-depth discussion of coursework is in the course catalog which is the following section in this catalog).

1. First-year Core Courses

The first year includes the following required, core courses:

- An Introduction to Contemporary Psychoanalytic Concepts

- The Observed Infant and Toddler

- A Critical-Historical Overview of Sigmund Freud

- One 7- or 8-week Clinical Case Conference in which Training Analysts present their work to the Candidates

- One 7- or 8-week Clinical Case Conference in which Candidates present their own work
2. Subsequent-year Courses

In subsequent years, required courses are balanced against electives. These required courses include:

- Object Relations Theory and Self Psychology Theory (second year)
- Intersubjectivity Theory and Relational Studies (third year)
- Final Integration Course (fourth year)
- Boundary Dilemmas (second, third, or fourth year)

3. Equivalent Experience/Elective Credit

Candidates may request that required core courses be waived based on prior equivalent experience in other psychoanalytic training programs. Candidates may also request that courses completed in other psychoanalytic training programs be credited as elective coursework at ICP.

Only coursework completed as part of a psychoanalytic training program from an ICP Board-approved psychoanalytic institute will be considered equivalent for waiver or elective substitution.

Should the Candidate request credit for previous coursework or advancement to a higher level of training based on equivalent experience, it is the responsibility of the Candidate’s Advisor to review the Candidate’s documentation of previously completed studies and petition the Board of Directors on the Candidate’s behalf. Such documentation must accompany a written request for waiver and course credit and must be presented to the CPC for their decision.

4. End-of-Course Reviews

At the end of each course, instructors review each Candidate’s progress by completing a Candidate Progression form (please refer to page 82, appendix VII). These assessments are distributed by the ICP office to the Candidate and the Advisor, to be kept in the Advisor’s file. Credit is based exclusively on the Candidate having met the attendance requirement of 70 percent of seminar sessions.

Candidates also write a review of their course Instructors at the end of the class by completing a Course Evaluation form (please refer to page 83, appendix VIII). A number of criteria are included in the review. Both the Instructor and Curriculum Committee receive a copy of the review.

Once the office receives every instructor’s completed Candidate Progression forms and every candidate’s completed Class Evaluations for a course, the staff will distribute the assessments, as outlined above, so that all recipients receive the appropriate forms on the same day.
D. Supervised Control Cases

1. Control Case Requirements

   • The ICP Candidate must be in full-time personal psychoanalysis (4 or 5 sessions per week) in order to begin supervised control cases.

   • This is applicable to Candidates who matriculated after September 2013: The candidate must inform each control case analysand prior to the official start of counting hours for a control case that the candidate is in analytic training and that the analysand is a control case.

   • ICP requires the Candidate complete three supervised control cases in order to graduate from training. One of the three required supervised cases may be a child case and requires supervision with a supervising child analyst.

   • Each control case must be supervised on a weekly basis for 18 months. If supervision for the 18 months of treatment is fewer than 65-70 hours, the supervisor and candidate should continue the supervision until at least a minimum of 65-70 hours are completed.

   • Two of the three cases must be in analysis a minimum of four sessions per week, and one case may be in analysis a minimum of three sessions per week.

2. Choice of Supervisor

   • Supervisors are to be selected from among ICP Training and Supervising Psychoanalysts. In order for the candidate to have a diversity of supervisory experiences, it is required that each supervised control case be supervised by a different supervisor.

   • Corresponding members may also supervise control cases. Candidates may choose a corresponding member for only one of their three control cases. Because some corresponding members are not supervising and training analysts only corresponding members who are supervising and training analysts may be used as supervisors for control cases.

   • It will be the candidate’s responsibility to confirm and inform the CPC that the corresponding member they are using as supervisor for their control case is a supervising/training analyst at their respective Institute.

   • A candidate’s training analyst shall not be the candidate’s control case supervisor, as it constitutes a dual relationship.

3. Supervisor Fees

   The fee paid by the Candidate for a supervisor is mutually agreed upon between the Candidate and Supervisor; however, all Supervisors are required to provide at least one low-fee supervision ($75). Candidates who desire a low-fee supervision may inquire of their supervisor if the low-fee slot is available. Some Candidates ask to be put on a waiting list for low-fee supervision.

4. Combining Supervised Control Cases

While all three cases must be supervised for 18 months each, one of these three supervisions may consist of two patients whose analyses total a minimum of 18 months of supervision. This policy has been instituted by ICP in order to allow the Candidate to take into analysis an analysand who may not appear to have good analytic prognoses according to the mainstream criteria for analyzability. Another motivation for this policy is to facilitate the gathering of accurate data on what actually happens in the analytic situation when working with difficult patients. ICP encourages broadening the mainstream and supporting the efforts of our own Candidates in this regard. The ability to combine two cases facilitates the Candidate’s willingness to consider the more difficult case for analysis without risking the penalty of losing that supervisory time if the patient interrupts treatment prior to 18 months. It is the entire span of the Candidate’s analytic experience that is used as a measure in determining whether the Candidate has learned to perform analysis; therefore, the absolute adherence to an 18-month minimum for all three supervised control cases is not the objective. If a case that is seen three sessions per week is combined with a case that is seen four sessions per week, that combined case is counted as a three time per week analysis.

5. Transfer of Previous Supervisions

Candidates transferring from an ICP-approved psychoanalytic training program may request credit for no more than two previous 18-month supervisions. Candidates must provide documentation for such supervised work. The documentation must be supplied to the Candidate’s Advisor and is forwarded by the Advisor to the CPC.

If the Candidate transferring from another psychoanalytic training institute is continuing their education and has a training case with less than 18 months supervision, the patient in question must continue in analysis in order for credit to be considered for the previous supervision. When the Candidate enters ICP, the Candidate must change supervisors, entering into supervision with an ICP-approved Supervising Analyst for the remainder of the 18 months of supervised work. Thus, the Candidate who is changing institutes may receive credit for the prior supervision by having those months of supervision credited to the supervised work with the ICP analyst.

To reiterate, credit for only two supervised cases may be considered for the transferring Candidate. ICP requires that any transferring Candidate complete a minimum of one 18-month supervision with an ICP-approved Training Analyst.

6. Control Case Reports

The Candidate is responsible for composing reports on supervised control cases at specified periods during matriculation.
a.) Case Report First Page Requirements

On the first page of the initial case report, and on all subsequent case reports, information should include the following:

- The Candidate's name
- The control case number (begin numbering with, #1, #2, etc.)
- Supervisor's name
- The date case went into supervision
- Period of time covered by the report.

This is applicable to Candidates who matriculated after September 2013:
The date Candidate informed the analysand that the candidate is in analytic training and that the analysand is a control case.

- Cover sheets should not be used. (For a Control Case Report First Page template, please see appendix VI on page 81.)

b) Initial Case Report

The Candidate writes an initial brief report on each case at the time the case is taken into analysis. The Candidate gives a copy of this report to the supervisor and sends a copy to the ICP administrative office. This brief report might include such considerations as description of treatment prior to the inception of analysis; presenting problems; genetic history; and diagnostic and dynamic considerations.

c) Case Report Due Dates

In addition to the initial brief report, Candidates are required to write a minimum of three reports on each analytic case. Case reports are due on March 1st and September 1st of each year. Thus, the first case report is due on either March 1st or the September 1st date following the initial date of analysis—regardless of the date the initial brief report was submitted. Thereafter, at least two more case reports must be presented. Hence, the second case report is due on the following March 1st or September 1st and the third report is due six months thereafter. For example, an analytic case may be started on May 15th. Shortly thereafter, the Candidate writes a brief initial report. The first case report is due that September 1st, covering the analysis from its inception to that point. On March 1st, the second case report is due, covering the analysis from September to March.

Finally, on the following September, the third case report is due, covering the analysis from March to that September. This completes the required case write-ups at six-month intervals. (Note that, in the above example, 18 months of supervision have not yet been completed. Further reporting requirements are described below.)
d) Case Report Content

Case reports are designed to provide for the reader a picture of the progress of the analysis. The focus is on the Candidate, demonstrating a capacity to do analytic work. As such, the report may contain consideration of such issues as transference; counter-transference; significant interactions in the dyad; and some indication of what the experience is like – both as imagined for the patient and as experienced by the Candidate-analyst. Case write-ups need be no longer than two pages but may exceed two pages at the Candidate's discretion.

e) Distribution of Supervised Control Case Reports

The distribution of case reports is as follows: Candidates give a copy of all case reports to their supervisors and send a copy to the ICP administration office. The ICP administration office forwards a copy to the Advisor. However, ICP does recognize that some analysands must be given additional protection to maintain their confidentiality. For example, analysands who are in the mental health field or individuals who have great notoriety are cases to be considered extraordinarily confidential, and case write-ups on these analysands are treated differently. Firstly, a determination of extraordinary confidentiality is made between the supervisor and Candidate. Secondly, a letter conveying this decision is submitted by the supervisor to the CPC. On these extraordinarily confidential cases, the Candidate sends a brief letter indicating that the case report has been given to the supervisor, in lieu of sending a case write-up to the ICP administration office.

Distribution of all case write-ups to the Advisors is the responsibility of the administrative office, facilitating the Advisors’ ability to maintain a complete file on each advisee.

f) Approval of Case Reports Prior to Graduation

All case reports must be received and approved in a timely fashion. If the Candidate is to be approved for graduation June, final case reports must be completed and submitted to the office by May 31st.

g) Case Reports Beyond Those Required

Once the 18-month supervision is completed or three case reports have been written, the Candidate is no longer required to submit case reports. If the Candidate chooses to continue producing case reports, two options are available for the documentation of the case through graduation or termination (whichever transpires first):

Option 1: Case write-ups may be continued each March 1st and September 1st until the analysand terminates or the Candidate graduates from training. If the case terminates before graduation, a final report concerning the termination process is required. This report may include a brief overview of the treatment process, a consideration of transference-countertransference evolution, reasons for termination, and a description of the final phase of analysis.
Option 2: The Candidate may opt to prepare only three required case reports. In such cases, a final summary must be written for the period following the last-prepared case report, covering the time in analysis, and ending either when the patient terminates or when the Candidate reaches the point of graduation.

h) Supervisory Reports

Corresponding to the three case reports written by the Candidate, there are supervisory reports written by the supervisor. These reports are due on April 15th and October 15th and take into consideration the Candidate’s respective case reports. Further, the supervisory reports reflect on the Candidate’s participation in the analytic process and on the Candidate’s growth as a maturing clinician. This report is first signed by the Candidate and then sent to the ICP administrative office. The ICP administrative office forwards a copy to the Advisor and the Candidate. (Supervisory Report Form template is located in appendix V, page 80.)

i) Candidate’s Responsibility in Archiving Documentation

It is highly recommended that each Candidate maintain a complete file of all case reports; class progression forms; supervisory forms; analytic recording hours report forms; and any other correspondence related to the Candidate’s progression at ICP. This documentation will ensure that the Candidate’s records and the ICP administrative records are consistent when the Candidate is considered for graduation.

4. Research Candidates

Research Candidates have unique matriculation requirements, including approval by the State of California. Once the Candidate is accepted, the Advisor will work with the Research Committee to assist the Candidate in securing appropriate clinical experience. The Research Committee will be available to assist the Research Candidate throughout their training.

5. Independent Study

- Independent Study Requirements

ICP requires the equivalent of four years of coursework comprised of the core courses listed above and electives. A list of electives is made available prior to each academic year, allowing Candidates to select electives that are of interest to them. In addition to core courses and electives, a Candidate may opt to develop a course of Independent Study. To develop a course of Independent Study, the following four steps must be taken in this order:

Step 1: The Candidate must design an appropriate topic and bibliography for the Independent Study.

Step 2: The Candidate must find a faculty member to work with him.

Step 3: The Candidate must provide a written description of the proposed course of Independent Study for the Curriculum Committee’s approval.

Step 4: The Candidate must provide the administrative office with the written description of the course of Independent Study as approved by the Curriculum Committee.

- Developing an Independent Study

a) Purpose of the Independent Study

The option of an Independent Study is available for Candidates pursuing an idea or area of study that is not offered through standard coursework. ICP strives to foster a spirit of psychoanalytic inquiry and encourages Candidates to explore their interests.

b) Criteria for Independent Study

The following information must be submitted to the Curriculum Committee for review:

- A statement of the objectives and goals of the course

- A week-by-week syllabus with topics for each week clearly defined. The relevance of the readings to the topic and course objectives should be evident

- A statement explaining how this course duplicates another course in the ICP training program (or other previous program of graduate study); if duplication is evident, include a statement as to why an Independent Study is being requested

- A statement regarding the selection of the Instructor for the Independent Study with reference to the topic; indicate the frequency of meetings or other monitoring of progress.

- Independent Study should be the Candidate’s own study; in a tutorial manner with an Instructor (it is possible that four other Candidates could be involved in the process).

Should the area of Independent Study not adhere to the above criteria, the Candidate may request a waiver for special consideration from the Curriculum Committee.

The role of the CPC in this process is limited to determining if the Candidate is eligible for such an Independent Study. A Candidate may not exceed 25 percent of the elective coursework (32 units) in Independent Study during the entire process of matriculation.
6. Ongoing Advisement

- Function of Advisor

The function of the Advisor is to serve as the Candidate’s advocate, mediating between the CPC and the Candidate during the course of the Candidate’s education. The Advisor remains with the Candidate throughout matriculation, meeting with the Candidate upon acceptance to ICP, interacting with the CPC initially if the Candidate requests waiver(s), and maintaining regular contact until graduation.

- Advisor Report Form

At the end of each academic year, an Advisor Report form will be sent to the Advisor in preparation for a meeting between the Advisor and the Candidate. This meeting provides an opportunity for the Candidate and Advisor to review the Candidate's experience during the academic term and address any questions or concerns that may arise. Following this meeting, the Advisor Report form is completed and must first be reviewed and signed by the Candidate before being sent to the administrative office. These reports are reviewed by the Candidate Progression Committee on a yearly basis. (Advisor Report form is located in appendix II, page 77.)

- Resolution of Differences

Problems may arise between an individual Candidate and a particular ICP member (i.e., between a Candidate and a Supervisor or Instructor). Problems may also arise between Candidates and fellowstudents.

It is not, to list all the ways problems may arise; however, the first step to resolve a problem is to deal with it in the classroom. The Candidates should initiate a corrective process that will prove satisfactory in most situations.

When the problems are not resolvable, the Chairs of the CPC should be notified. The CPC has many options to mediate difficult situations, including consulting with the Advisor, appointing a class facilitator, appointing an ad hoc committee to investigate the issue, etc. If necessary, the CPC may present the problem to the Board of Directors.

If the Candidate or Candidates do not feel comfortable addressing the problem in class or to a Committee, they may contact the president of the Institute – who will decide on a course of action.

If the Candidate’s Advisor becomes aware of a problem situation involving the Candidate through a review of the Supervisor or from an Instructor Assessment form, the Advisor will discuss the issue directly with the Candidate. If necessary, the Advisor may initiate and mediate a meeting to address a difficulty. If resolution proves difficult, the Candidate may choose to write a statement to be placed in the Candidate’s explaining the Candidate’s response to the problem.
As a final attempt at resolution to seemingly irresolvable problems, a Grievance Committee (an ad hoc committee of the Candidate Progression Committee) may be formed. Such a committee may be initiated either by the Candidate or by the other party to the difficulty. The Grievance Committee is composed of the Candidate, the member with whom there is an impasse, the Candidate’s Advisor, an ombudsman selected by the Candidate from among the membership of ICP, and a representative of the CPC who will act as Chair of the Grievance Committee. Should this ad hoc committee be unable to resolve the grievance, the Chair(s) of the Candidate Progression Committee will refer the matter to the Board of Directors, who would be empowered to make a final and binding decision.

The Advisor ordinarily mediates between the Candidate and the Candidate Progression Committee; however, at times the Candidate may choose to meet directly with the CPC regarding particular concerns or requests, or submit a written request to the CPC.

ICP stresses the importance of following the laws of fairness and confidentiality. This is crucial when dealing with issues that may involve accusations related to professional practice.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

A. Granting of Leave

Leave of Absence from candidacy may be taken at any time due to personal reasons. The request must come from the Candidate in the form of a letter to the CPC, advising of the need to take a Leave of Absence. The letter might include a brief explanation as to the reasons for the requested Leave, but such justification is not mandatory. All leaves are automatically granted. It is the Candidate’s discretion as to whether a Leave is required or if some other alternative may be explored and implemented through the CPC. An annual fee of $200 is required, and must accompany the letter. Leaves of Absence are renewed on an annual basis each June, and a letter confirming whether the Leave is to be continued through the next year is required by June of each year. If the Leave is to be continued, the $200 must accompany the renewal letter.

While on Leave, a Candidate may not take classes and will not get credit for ongoing supervision, control case hours or ongoing recorded personal analytic hours. Also, a Candidate may not hold graduation committee meetings for their graduation paper during this time.

B. Duration of Leave

Leave of Absence status may be renewed up to five years. By October of the fifth year, the Candidate is to contact the Chair of the Candidate Progression Committee to arrange a meeting to review the Candidate’s position at the Institute. The purpose of the meeting will be to explore and determine possibilities for future matriculation.

If a Candidate exhausts the five-year period and becomes inactive, the individual would be required to engage in a re-admission procedure. The re-admission procedure would include a modified application and an interview to determine if the individual intends to be considered an active Candidate once again.
POLICY ON PREGNANCY AND NEWPARENTHOOD

While we uphold the tripartite model of the training model at ICP, occasionally life events make that difficult to adhere to. In recognition of that, the following policy has been approved:

• A full time candidate who is pregnant or a new parent and who has already begun control case-work, can, upon paying half tuition, get credit for that control case and analytic hours for up to one academic year.

• If a candidate is following this policy and wants to begin another control case, approval from the CPC needs to be obtained.

• That candidate can either take classes part time or not attend classes.

A candidate wanting to utilize this policy should send a statement to the CPC Chair for inclusion in the file and to the Treasurer for tuition reduction.

IV. GRADUATION

A. Graduation Requirements

1. Graduation from ICP requires that the Candidate complete, in a satisfactory manner, the equivalent of four years (420 hours) of didactic coursework, including the required core courses. While the Instructors complete evaluation forms for each Candidate, it is recognized that, because neither written papers nor exams are required as part of the seminar format used at ICP, evaluation of the individual Candidate’s performance is difficult. Course Instructors are asked to indicate on the evaluation form whether course credit is given. Course credit is awarded when the Candidate has a minimum attendance rate of 70 percent. Additionally, Instructors are asked to make any comments deemed useful and appropriate. However, it is an important policy at ICP that Candidates are free to remain quiet in class; they are not to be judged as inadequate on this basis. Therefore, the academic requirement for graduation is met when the Candidate completes four years of academic courses in a satisfactory manner.

2. A second requirement for determining readiness for graduation is the completion of the analytic supervised control cases.

3. A third requirement for determining readiness for graduation is the completion of the minimum number of hours of Training Analysis.

If the Candidate chooses instead, or in addition, to pursue a Ph.D., different requirements will apply, including additional required courses. For a description of the requirements for the Ph.D. Candidate, see materials describing the ICP Ph.D. program (formulated by the Ph.D. Committee and outlined in the Ph.D. section of this manual.)

B. Graduation Ceremony: Deadlines

The graduation ceremony is held each year in the Spring. Four deadlines must be met in order for the Candidate to participate in the Spring graduation ceremony:

1. NO LATER THAN THE JUNE CPC MEETING of the previous year, the Advisor must submit to the CPC an initial draft of the Graduation Paper/Project, along with a letter announcing the names and titles of the Graduation Paper/Project committee members, and request the appointment of the Candidate Progression Committee Reader.

2. NO LATER THAN THE NOVEMBER CPC MEETING of the previous year, the Advisor must send the CPC a letter stating that the entire Graduation Committee has met and approved the Candidate’s Graduation Paper/Project and requesting a date for a Graduation Committee review meeting with the CPC. This letter must be accompanied by an unstapled copy of the Candidate’s final approved Graduation Paper/Project.

3. PRIOR TO GRADUATION, all case reports and supervisory reports must be completed and submitted to the office by May 30th.

The administrative office will contact each year’s prospective graduates to arrange a meeting to review their respective candidate files prior to graduation. The candidate is responsible for submitting any outstanding control case reports and Supervisory Reports by May 30th.

4. Graduation from ICP requires that the Candidate complete, in a satisfactory manner, the equivalent of four years (420 hours) of didactic coursework, including the required core courses, by the last session of the academic year.

The Advisor is responsible for urging all members of the Graduation Committee to pursue the Candidate’s draft paper/project in a timely fashion, thereby facilitating the Candidate’s opportunity to complete a final paper/project for the November of the previous year CPC deadline. If the November deadline is not honored, the Candidate may graduate at the time the Board of Directors approves the recommendation of the CPC, but the Candidate may not participate in the approaching Spring graduation ceremony; however, the Candidate may participate in the Spring graduation ceremony of the following year.
V. PART-TIME ADMISSION AND SUBSEQUENT PROGRESSION

A. Part-Time Candidates

1. The part-time Candidate will enroll in no more than one first-year required class per semester. The option to register for a weekend analytic class is not available to part-time Candidates.

2. The part-time Candidate will begin, or continue an existing schedule of, a minimum of two-session per week personal psychotherapy with a Training Analyst approved by ICP.

3. The part-time Candidate must begin that personal analysis BEFORE the first day of class in September.

4. The first analytic case started by the Candidate while under the supervision of an ICP-approved supervisor may be initiated only when the Candidate is in full-time psychoanalysis (4 to 5 sessions per week).

5. A Candidate may be PART-TIME ONLY for two years. After two years on part-time status, the Candidate must progress to FULL-TIME status and may take weekday and weekend classes. After two years as a part-time candidate, all candidates pay full tuition regardless of the number of classes they choose to take.

VI. MATRICULATION – PART-TIME CANDIDATES

A. Assignment of Advisor

Following admission to ICP, the CPC assigns an Advisor to each Candidate. Advisors may remain assigned to the Candidate until graduation. A Candidate may request a new Advisor at any time without explanation or justification. To do so, the Candidate secures the agreement of the preferred Advisor, informs the Administration and the former Advisor of the change, and ensures that the former Advisor forwards all applicable records to the Administration.

B. Assessing the Training Level and Status of the Candidate

1. Training Analysis

A Candidate in part-time training is not permitted to begin coursework at ICP before the initiation of a minimum two times per week personal psychotherapy with an ICP-approved Training Analyst. Upon becoming a full-time candidate, the personal psychoanalysis required is a minimum of 4 sessions per week for a period total of at least 300 hours. The Training Analyst must report to the Candidate's Advisor on a yearly basis the dates and frequency of the Candidate's personal psychoanalytic sessions. When an interruption in the required frequency exists (not attributable to common vacations or illness) the following actions must be taken: the Training Analyst notifies the Candidate's Advisor, who in turn, will communicate with the Candidate regarding the reasons for the interruption and the Candidate's professional aspirations. No Candidate may continue in training before the 300-hour requirement is completed without participating in a personal psychoanalysis with an ICP-approved Training Analyst. Following the completion of the 300-hour requirement, there will be no further recording of the Candidate’s analysis.

However, if a Candidate is still in the process of completing one or more control cases after the 300-hour requirement, the Candidate must remain in analysis for a minimum of 2 sessions per week until the control case(s) are completed.

Recording forms will be distributed on an annual basis to each Candidate. The Candidate, on a monthly basis, is responsible for ensuring that the Training Analyst accurately records the Candidate’s personal analysis hours, and that the records are submitted to the Candidate’s Advisor. Please see a sample ‘Certification of Analytic Hours’ recording form on page 78, appendix IV.

C. Coursework

1. First Two Years

For part-time Candidates, the first two years include the following required, core courses:
   • An Introduction to Contemporary Psychoanalytic Concepts
   • The Observed Infant and Toddler
   • A Critical-Historical Overview of Sigmund Freud
   • One 7- or 8-week Clinical Case Conference in which Training Analysts present their work to the Candidates
   • One 7- or 8-week Clinical Case Conference in which Candidates present their own work

The first two years of part-time coursework constitute one year of the required full-time coursework at ICP. After completion of these requirements, a part-time Candidate will become a full-time second year Candidate.

2. Subsequent-year Courses

In subsequent years, required courses are balanced against electives. These required courses include:
   • Object Relations Theory (second year)
   • Self Psychology Theory, Intersubjectivity Theory and Relational Studies (second year)
   • Boundary Dilemmas (second, third, or fourth year)
   • Final Integration Course (fourth year)
3. Equivalent Experience/Elective Credit

Candidates may request that required core courses be waived based on prior equivalent experience in other psychoanalytic training programs. Candidates may also request that courses completed in other psychoanalytic training programs be credited as elective coursework at ICP.

Only coursework completed as part of a psychoanalytic training program from an ICP Board-approved psychoanalytic institute will be considered equivalent for waiver or elective substitution.

Should the Candidate request credit for previous coursework or advancement to a higher level of training based on equivalent experience, it is the responsibility of the Candidate’s Advisor to review the Candidate’s documentation of previously completed studies and petition the Board of Directors on the Candidate’s behalf. Such documentation must accompany a written request for waiver and course credit and must be presented to the CPC for their decision.

4. End-of-Course Reviews

At the end of each course, instructors review each Candidate’s progress by completing a Candidate Progression form (please refer to page 82, appendix VII). These assessments are distributed by the ICP office to the Candidate and the Advisor, to be kept in the Advisor’s file. Credit is based exclusively on the Candidate having met the attendance requirement of 70 percent of seminar sessions. Additional comments are made by the Instructor but these comments are not influential for the purpose of granting credit.

Candidates also write a review of their course Instructors at the end of the class by completing a Course Evaluation form (please refer to page 83, appendix VIII). A number of criteria are included in the review. Both the Instructor and Curriculum Committee receive a copy of the review.

Once the office receives every instructors’ completed Candidate Progression forms and every candidates’ completed Course Evaluations for a course, the staff will distribute the assessments, as outlined above, so that all recipients receive the appropriate forms on the same day.

D. Supervised Control Cases

The ICP Candidate must be in full-time personal psychoanalysis (4 or 5 sessions per week) in order to begin supervised control cases. ICP requires the Candidate complete three supervised control cases in order to graduate from training. Each control case must be supervised on a weekly basis for 18 months. Two of the three cases must be in analysis a minimum of four sessions per week, and one case may be in analysis a minimum of three sessions per week. If supervision for the 18 months of treatment is fewer than 65-70 hours, the supervisor and candidate should continue the supervision until at least a minimum of 65-70 hours are completed.
E. Research Candidates
This information is the same as that outlined for full-time Candidates (Section II, E).

F. Independent Study
This information is the same as that outlined for full-time Candidates (Section II, F).

G. Ongoing Advisement

ICP Course and Faculty Catalog
Psychoanalytic Training Program

September 10, 2015
to
May 15, 2016
Notice to Prospective Degree Program Students:

This institution is approved by the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education to offer degree programs. To continue to offer degree programs, this institution must meet the following requirements:

- Become institutionally accredited by an accrediting agency recognized by the United States Department of Education, with the scope of the accreditation covering at least one degree program.

- Achieve accreditation candidacy or pre-accreditation, as defined in regulations, by July 1, 2017, and full accreditation by July 1, 2020.

If this institution stops pursuing accreditation, the following will happen:

- The institution must stop all enrollment in its degree programs, and

- Provide a teach-out to finish the educational program or provide a refund.

An institution that fails to comply with accreditation requirements by the required dates shall have its approval to offer degree programs automatically suspended.
ICP Faculty

This ICP program has approximately 24 volunteer faculty members that teach in the psychoanalytic training program during any given year; this number does not include guest faculty that may teach a single class of a course. The Faculty is comprised of psychoanalysts who are members of ICP. Most of them are senior analysts. Each is an experienced clinician who has completed psychoanalytic training at a psychoanalytic institute and has participated in ICP's Faculty Training Workshop. Many of those on the faculty have teaching positions at local graduate psychology and social work programs. Those on the faculty have training and professional experience that spans a range of theory and practice. Faculty for all academic classes are selected based on their expertise in the specific field, publications, lectures, research and any original contribution in the field. When appropriate, student evaluations of the faculty from previous years and for elective courses, popularity of the course offered by the faculty are taken into account when selecting an individual faculty member. All faculty are required to submit their curriculum vitae to verify their expertise and to attend a day long instructor training designed to enhance their teaching skills (i.e. how to integrate issues regarding diversity into the course).

ICP Faculty

1. Faculty qualifications are as follows:
   a. Member of the Institute who is a graduate of ICP.
   b. Graduate of any other psychoanalytic institute who is a member or a corresponding member.
   c. Possess a license to practice psychotherapy in their home state.
   d. Possess a prior advanced degree from a postgraduate degree program at a college or university in the United States or Canada.
   e. Those faculty whose degrees were received outside of the United States or Canada must come from institutions that are members of the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES).
   f. Exhibit or demonstrate expertise in the course topic, by either publishing papers on the topic, having had experience teaching the topic before, and/or having specific training in that course area.
   g. If teaching a Ph.D. core course the instructor must possess a Ph.D. from a state approved or accredited institution.
   h. Possess the experiential qualifications to teach, including a minimum of three years of experience in the field. If not they have to teach with an instructor who does possess these requirements.
   i. Attend a one-day ICP faculty-training course.

2. Faculty duties are as followed:
   a. 4 months in advance the faculty must submit a syllabus along with the referenced readings for each class the instructor is teaching.
   b. Courses either meet for 7, 8 or 15 weeks and course credit is commensurate with the course length.
c. The instructor must teach the course at the scheduled time and for the contracted number of hours. Any cancelled sessions must be made up at a time that is convenient for every student in the course.

d. Faculty must complete written evaluations for all candidates in the course.

e. Faculty must be available to meet individually with students as needed at the Institute or their office.

3. ICP maintains records documenting that each faculty member is duly qualified and was qualified to perform the duties to which the faculty member was assigned.

4. Each faculty member is evaluated by each student in every course that they teach.

5. Academic Freedom Policy

   a. ICP is a vital and inclusive analytic institute that follows the tenets of academic freedom, participatory democracy and diversity of psychoanalytic theory.

   b. Faculty/instructor's right to academic freedom and the principles that it guarantees are key elements of ICP's founding members' philosophy and a crucial aspect of the ICP's vision.

   c. Academic freedom at ICP nurtures a culture of diversity, inclusion, invitation, dignity and respect for the therapeutic process.

   d. Academic freedom provides our faculty/instructors with

      i. freedom of inquiry and research

      ii. freedom within the classroom to express the widest range of viewpoints in accord with the standards of scholarly inquiry and professional ethics.

      iii. freedom of expression and publication

   e. Academic freedom is limited only by the bounds of the professions ethics.

   f. The ICP Academic Freedom Policy is available by request to all members and candidates.

COURSEWORK

Summary of Requirements:

To complete the Psy.D. program, you are required to take 32 course units, half of which are required core courses. The non-core units can be obtained through electives covering a variety of techniques and theories in various areas of psychoanalysis. There are no prescribed testing procedures designed to measure program completion. Tests (if given) are at the discretion of individual instructors and test results only count toward that particular course. Candidate progression, as a result, relies on completion of at least 70% of each course taken, and the following:

In addition to completing the coursework requirements, candidates are required to:

1) Complete a training analysis. The personal analysis must be conducted with an ICP Training and Supervising analyst. The candidate must be in 4 times per week psychoanalysis for a minimum of 300 hours.

2) Treat 3 psychoanalytic training cases. Each of the 3 training (control) cases to be seen by the candidate, must be treated for between 3 and 4 times per week and must be supervised by an ICP Training and Supervising analyst for a minimum of 18 months (or 65-70 hours) each.

First Year Core Courses

(This year is comprised of all core courses. All the first year core courses must be taken in order to take 2nd year courses or any other elective.)

Basic Concepts (15 weeks)

This is a 15-week course that forms the foundation for the study of contemporary psychoanalysis. We will introduce the basic concepts that have shaped the dialogue about the theory and practice of psychoanalysis over time. Through our readings, our class dialogue, and our study of theory and epistemology, we will investigate the underpinnings of the following concepts: structure of mind, the unconscious, development, transference and countertransference, defense and resistance, intrapsychic and interpersonal experience, and subjectivity and intersubjectivity. The course format will entail readings, lectures, discussion, and critiques of these concepts and theories. We will also incorporate clinical examples and discussion to illuminate controversies in theory and technique.

Infant and Toddler Development (15 weeks)

This course covers a broad range of contemporary literature and research on infant/mother and toddler development as well as applications of this literature to the understanding of the psychoanalytic relationship and psychoanalytic treatment of adults. Readings include authors who are primarily infancy researchers, authors who are both researchers and psychoanalytic practitioners, and authors who have read and organized the research literature in order to apply it to the psychoanalytic treatment of adults.

Case Conference (15 weeks)

First 8 weeks: The Analyst Presents

This course is taught by two Training Analysts. It focuses on the psychoanalytic case study, and will teach students how to organize and present clinical material. Two experienced analysts will present clinical cases, offering the student an opportunity to delve more fully into clinical process, and to comment on the analyst’s presentations. This seminar will teach students how to process clinical material and to think critically about the psychoanalytic discourse.

Final 7 weeks: The Candidate Presents
In this section, one or two candidates present ongoing clinical cases to two training analysts and to the class. The cases are discussed from a psychoanalytic perspective and the clinical process is discussed exploring technical and theoretical models.

Freud (15 weeks)

The two main goals of this course are (1) to read a broad sampling of Freud's work, getting to know the Herr Doctor as comprehensively as possible—both as a person and as a developing thinker and clinician; and (2) to sharpen critical reading skills: to make a relationship with the text, if you will, to hear what it has to say—both explicitly and between the lines—and to monitor your own affective and associational responses to it. Hint: Reading texts have a lot in common with doing therapy.

Second Year Core Courses:

(This year is comprised of all core courses and one elective opportunity.)

Object Relations (15 weeks)

This course focuses on the development of the object-relations perspective, within the context of World War II, and in dialogue with Freud and Klein. We will focus on how this perspective turned psychoanalysis on its head by formulating the primacy of human relationships in shaping the unconscious and human character. The course will explore influential object-relations theorists, starting with Melanie Klein and Sandor Ferenczi, through W. Ronald Fairbairn, Harry Guntrip, and D.W. Winnicott. We will also study contemporary object-relations theorists such as Neville Symington and Thomas Ogden. Finally we will look at the link between object-relations and contemporary relational theory, through the work of Jessica Benjamin and Phillip Bromberg.

Contemporary Psychoanalytic Theories

(30 weeks) consists of three 10-week sections of significant contemporary psychoanalytic theories:

Self Psychology (10 weeks)

The purpose of this course is to introduce the basic concepts of Self Psychology, including self psychology’s historical development and its contemporary transformations. Kohut’s focus on the central role of empathy has transformed psychoanalysis, and we will explore, in depth, the ways the concept of empathy is utilized, as well as how it can be misunderstood. We will also explore post-Kohutian perspectives in contemporary psychoanalysis and illustrate their application to clinical work.

Intersubjective Systems Theory (10 weeks)

This course introduces doctoral candidates to Intersubjective-systems theory, the psychoanalytic framework principally formulated by George Atwood, Bernard Brandchaft, Donna Orange, and Robert Stolorow. Intersubjective-systems theory is a relational-affect theory wherein human emotional experience, and its constitutive embeddedness in relational contexts, are deemed at the center of psychoanalytic study and treatment. Accordingly, the curriculum and readings reflect consideration of traditional psychoanalytic notions of emotional development, unconsciousness, mind & body relations, fantasy, dreams, transference, therapeutic impasse an so forth from the intersubjective-systems perspective wherein, again, affect and its constitutive relationality are deemed at the motivational and formative center of human emotional life. The course includes in-class case presentations by faculty and candidate-volunteers during which the theoretical principles elucidated in the readings and lectures are employed to illuminate clinical material from an intersubjective-systems perspective. The candidates are required to write a short essay in which they illustrate their clinical use or theoretical consideration of one or more of the ideas distinctive to the intersubjective-systems perspective presented in the course readings and lectures.

Relational Theory (10 weeks)

The main purpose of this course is to instill a strong understanding of the spirit of the Relational Tradition as it was first conceived and generated in the United States. Early influential papers from this unique tradition as it first came together in New York City will be emphasized. The course will assess the differences between models of the mind that see the self as unified as opposed to those that see it as multiply constituted or conflicted. We will delineate the ways in which the assumption of the therapist's co-creation of the therapeutic encounter differs from an objectivist stance toward the patient. This course will also elucidate both how dissociated self-states in both patient and therapist are enacted in the therapeutic relationship and how such enactment can be constitutive of therapeutic action. Lastly, the course will include current perspectives as they continue to evolve within the Relational Tradition throughout the world, and here at ICP.

Third Year Core Course
(This year is comprised of all electives and one core course.)

Core Course: Boundary Dilemmas (to be taken any time after the second year)

The purpose of this course is to educate candidates about the importance of establishing a psychoanalytic framework that creates a safe environment for both patient and analyst. The creation and utilization of a secure boundary may prevent ethical violations and enable the patient to develop trust in the analytic process that allows for psychological development. This class also explores how unconscious boundary enactments can be understood and worked with in a relational psychoanalytic way.

Fourth Year Core Course:
(This year is comprised of all electives and one core course.)

Core Course: Theory of Everything

This class allows students to process their years of analytic training, and to explore and reflect upon the different theories presented here at ICP. Students discuss how they integrate the wealth of ideas they have discovered into their lives and their practices.

Ph.D. Program (There is a complete Ph.D. Manual in this catalog that supplements this section.)

Those individuals working toward their Ph.Ds need to take 37 units of courses over the course of their training, including the described core courses. There are 3 additional courses (equal to 5 units) specifically required for attaining a Ph.D. degree and the rest of the units can be acquired by taking core and elective Psy.D. courses.

Required courses for the Ph.D. program:

- Philosophy of Science (1 unit)

This course is based on the widely accepted idea that contemporary philosophy of science is based upon a vocabulary inherited from Logical Positivism. Logical Positivism will be discussed in detail with particular emphasis on the latter’s influence in the work of Thomas Kuhn through the Social Constructionists. Additionally, there are invaluable contributions to the philosophy of science that precede the 21st century. We survey and present ideas that are prominently voiced in the Greek and Roman period up to and through 17th century, and will recognize the historical contributions of Aristotle, Bacon, Hume, Lakatos and Kantto the philosophy of science.

- Research Methods (2 units)

This course will include discussions of the context in which psychoanalytic research has been done historically, recently, and in the present. This course also includes discussions of research design best suited to psychoanalysis, examining four types of psychoanalytic research-hermeneutic, quantitative, clinical case study, theoretical and applied psychoanalysis. Basic statistical methods in the psychological sciences, starting with basic probability, descriptive statistics, and inferential statistics will be reviewed. Research methods are put in the context of basic experimental research in psychoanalysis, including such methods as ANOVA, z-tests, t-tests, regression and correlation. Special attention is given to the research design underlying the dissertation. Research ethics will also be discussed in this course.

- Dissertation Writing Seminar (2 units)

This course will focus on the writing of a doctoral dissertation in the field of psychoanalysis; this will include the proposal requirements and its specific elements. It will addresses common concerns arising in the process of preparing the dissertation proposal, and in writing the dissertation itself. Candidates will be expected to write on a weekly basis and formulate a timeline of their individual research process. There will be collegial critique and one-on-one consultations with the faculty will be available.

ICP Guidelines for the Psy.D. Graduation Paper
&
Psy.D. Graduation Project
PSY.D. GRADUATION PAPER

When to Begin the Process

The process of initiating the Graduation Paper may take place at any time during the Candidate’s training. The purpose of the Graduation Paper is to demonstrate the Candidate’s development as a psychoanalyst; therefore, the Candidate is expected to write the Graduation Paper during the third or fourth year of study, as such development stems from the Candidate’s involvement in classes, control cases, supervision and training analysis. It is the intention of ICP to establish requirements allowing for the uniqueness and creativity of each Candidate. Some Candidates might find that reading completed Graduation Papers is helpful in developing ideas for their own Paper. (Contact the ICP Office for the list of papers and process for obtaining them.)

Criteria for the Graduation Paper

All of the following criteria for the Graduation Paper must be met:

1. The Graduation Paper must address a psychoanalytic topic.

2. The Graduation Paper must be the product of psychoanalytic training at ICP, reflecting what the Candidate has learned in that training.

3. The Graduation Paper must demonstrate competence in psychoanalytic understanding.

4. The Graduation Paper must be internally coherent (arguments in the Paper are consistent, logical, and connect in a meaningful fashion).

5. The Graduation Paper must be externally coherent (the content of the Paper is consistent with knowledge of the subject stemming from outside sources).

6. The Graduation Paper must follow any coherent, consistent, recognizable format accepted by Psychoanalytic Journals.

7. The Graduation Paper must include the required title page (see page 84, appendix IX).
8. The Graduation Paper must include a Literature Review. (A Literature Review is an account of what has been published on the topic, the key authors, and the prevailing theories, hypotheses, and methodologies already in publication.)

9. The Graduation Paper must include theoretical material related to that case (if based on case material).

10. As the graduation paper must be made a permanent part of the public domain the following rules apply:

A.) For Candidates who matriculated prior to September 2013. When writing about patients, any case material must be sufficiently disguised so that the person is not recognizable in the public domain.

B.) For Candidates who matriculated after September 2013. When writing about patients, the candidate acknowledges (in writing) that he/she has obtained consent from the patient. The consent will illustrate that the patient has agreed to be written about in the candidate’s paper. Even with this consent the candidate must ensure that any case material is sufficiently disguised so that the person is not recognizable in the public domain. This acknowledgement is to be placed in the candidate’s file and on the page following the title page of the graduation paper.

Graduation Paper Committee

When ready to begin the Psy.D. Paper, the Candidate forms a Graduation Paper Committee. After considering the most appropriate individuals to address the Paper’s particular topic, the Candidate contacts those ICP Members and requests their participation on the Committee. It is important to stipulate to each Member the role the Candidate wishes that Member to assume.

The Graduation Paper Committee consists of an Advisor, a Mentor, a Supervisor, a Reader, and a CPC Reader. If a Member serves in more than one capacity on a Graduation Committee (i.e., an Advisor who also serves as a Mentor), an additional Member serving in the capacity of an extra Reader must be chosen by the Candidate and added to the Committee. Each Member makes a commitment to work closely with the Candidate by providing guidance and feedback as the Candidate develops the Paper. All Papers must include the required elements. All parties are required to attend a meeting of the entire group (set up by the Advisor in collaboration with the Candidate). All parties are expected to attend the Graduation Review, which is a meeting of the Graduation Paper Committee and the CPC held after the Paper has been approved.

Advisor

The Advisor is an automatic Member of the Committee and has the following responsibilities:

a) Once the Candidate notifies the Advisor that the Committee has been formed, the Advisor contacts the CPC in writing to request a CPC Reader be assigned to the Graduation Committee. This should be done as soon as possible to ensure that the CPC Reader is involved in the process as early as possible. The written request to the CPC should include the Candidate’s name, the names of all Committee Members with their designated roles, and either an *abstract or a *first final draft of the Paper.

If the request is made by the June CPC meeting of the previous year, and the Candidate intends to participate in the spring graduation ceremony, a first final draft is required to accompany the written request.

If participation in the spring graduation ceremony is not planned, only an abstract is required to be submitted with the written request.

b) In consultation with the Candidate, the Advisor sets up a meeting of the full Committee to discuss the Paper and make recommendations and revisions. This meeting is typically scheduled toward the end of the process but it may take place earlier if advantageous to the Candidate. At least one full meeting of the entire Committee is required.

c) When the entire Committee has approved the final version of the Paper, the Advisor requests a formal date for a Graduation Review (a joint meeting of the CPC and Graduation Paper Committee) by notifying the CPC in writing. A proofread edited copy of the final Paper must be included in the request. The CPC Chair informs the Advisor of the scheduled date of the meeting. The Advisor informs each Committee Member of the date and reports back to the ICP office if any Member is unable to attend.

d) At the Graduation Review with the CPC and the Graduation Paper Committee, the Advisor gives a report of the Candidate's progress during the years of candidacy. This is an oral presentation only (no written report is required).

Mentor

The Mentor takes on all the responsibilities assigned a Committee Member and should be prepared to comment on the Paper.

Supervisor

The Supervisor, who must be a Supervisor from one of the three required control cases, takes on all the responsibilities assigned a Committee Member and should be prepared to comment on the Paper.

Reader

The Reader takes on all the responsibilities assigned a Committee Member and prepares a short critique of the Paper to read aloud at the Graduation Review. This critique should be written and is included the Candidate's scholastic file.

CPC Reader

The CPC Reader takes on all the responsibilities assigned a Committee Member. During the entire process, the CPC Reader serves as the representative of the Candidate Progression Committee, and carries the Candidate Progression Committee's authority for approving the Paper in final form. When the Paper is approved by the CPC Reader, in conjunction with the other Members of the Graduation Paper Committee, it is then considered a final Paper. During the CPC Graduation Review, the CPC Reader will prepare a short critique of the Paper to read aloud at the Graduation Review. This critique should be written and is included the Candidate's scholastic file.
Candidate Involvement within the Committee

The Candidate may work independently, or with the Mentor to develop a first final draft of the Paper. The first final draft is then submitted to all five Members of the Committee for their commentary. When the Candidate prepares the next draft of the Paper, integrating the Committee’s commentary, the Candidate submits that draft to each Member of the five-person Committee. This process of commentary and draft revisions may be repeated several times. At some point, the meeting of the full Committee will take place. All Committee Members must approve the Paper before it is deemed a final draft.

The Graduation Review

This is a meeting of the Candidate Progression Committee and the Graduation Paper Committee that takes place after the Graduation Paper has been approved. The Review is an opportunity to discuss the Paper, share ideas, and celebrate the completion of the Candidate’s Paper and forthcoming graduation.

Time Requirements for Participation in spring Graduation Ceremony

The graduation ceremony is held each year in the spring. Four deadlines must be met in order for the Candidate to participate in the spring graduation ceremony:

NO LATER THAN THE JUNE CPC MEETING of the previous year, the Advisor must submit to the Candidate Progression Committee the first final draft of the Graduation Paper, along with a letter announcing the names and titles of the four members of the Candidate’s Graduation Paper Committee (Advisor, Mentor, Supervisor and Reader). If a request for a CPC Reader has not already been made, it must be done at this time.

NO LATER THAN THE NOVEMBER CPC MEETING of the previous year, the Advisor must send the Candidate Progression Committee a letter stating that the entire Graduation Paper Committee has approved the Candidate’s Graduation Paper and requesting a date for a Graduation Review with the Candidate Progression Committee. This letter must be accompanied by an unstapled edited copy of the Candidate's final Graduation Paper.

PRIOR TO GRADUATION, all case reports and supervisory reports must be completed and submitted to the office two weeks prior to the scheduled spring graduation ceremony.

Graduation from ICP requires that the Candidate complete, in a satisfactory manner, the equivalent of four years (420 hours) of didactic coursework, including the required core courses, by the last session of the academic year.

It is the Advisor’s responsibility to urge all members of the Graduation Paper Committee to pursue the Candidate’s first final draft Paper in a timely fashion, thereby facilitating the Candidate’s opportunity to complete a final Paper for the November Candidate Progression Committee deadline. If the November deadline is not honored, the Candidate may graduate at the time the Board of Directors approves the recommendation of the Candidate Progression Committee, but the Candidate may not participate in the approaching Spring graduation ceremony; however, the Candidate may participate in the Spring graduation ceremony of the following year.

Writing Suggestions

Time constraints should be considered when preparing the Paper. It is recommended that the Candidate establish personal deadlines for each step of completion (from writing the abstract to completion of the final Paper). When delivering a first final draft to Graduation Committee Members for review and suggestions, the Candidate should make every effort to present a draft free of spelling and grammatical errors.
I. PSY.D. GRADUATION PROJECT

A. When to Begin the Process

The process of initiating the Graduation Project may take place at any time during the Candidate’s training. The purpose of the Graduation Project is to demonstrate the Candidate’s development as a psychoanalyst; therefore, the Candidate is expected to write the Graduation Paper during the third or fourth year of study, as such development stems from the Candidate’s involvement in classes, control cases, supervision and training analysis. It is the intention of ICP to establish requirements allowing for the uniqueness and creativity of each Candidate. Some Candidates might find that reading completed Graduation Projects is helpful in developing ideas for their own Project. (Contact the ICP Administrator for the process and cost of obtaining past Projects.) Input from the Graduation Committee is also expected to influence the Candidate’s Graduation Project.

Criteria for the Graduation Project

The Graduation Project is a possible alternative to the Graduation Paper. The Project is a serious, rigorous, creative work that reveals the Candidate’s development as a psychoanalyst. All of the following criteria for the Graduation Project must be met:

1. The Graduation Project must address a psychoanalytic topic.

2. The Graduation Project must demonstrate competence in psychoanalytic understanding.

3. The Graduation Project must be internally coherent (arguments in the Project are consistent, logical, and connect in a meaningful fashion).

4. The Graduation Project must be externally coherent (the content of the Project is consistent with knowledge of the subject stemming from outside sources).

5. The Graduation Project must include a written explanation of the Candidate’s inspiration, philosophy, and goals in creating the particular Project.
6. The Graduation Project must include a Literature Review. (A Literature Review is an account of what has been published on the topic, the key authors, and the prevailing theories, hypotheses, and methodologies already in publication.)

7. As the graduation project must be made a permanent part of the public domain the following rules apply:

A.) For Candidates who matriculated prior to September 2013. When writing about patients, any case material must be sufficiently disguised so that the person is not recognizable in the public domain.

B.) For Candidates who matriculated after September 2013. When writing about patients, the candidate acknowledges (in writing) that he/she has obtained consent from the patient. The consent will illustrate that the patient has agreed to be written about in the candidate's paper. Even with this consent the candidate must ensure that any case material is sufficiently disguised so that the person is not recognizable in the public domain. This acknowledgement is to be placed in the candidate’s file and on the page following the title page of the graduation paper.

8. The Graduation Project must be the product of psychoanalytic training at ICP, reflecting what the Candidate has learned in that training.

The Graduation Project must include some record, whatever the form, of its presentation, so that the Project continues to be available to the psychoanalytic community.

Graduation Project Committee

When ready to begin the Psy.D. Project, the Candidate forms a Graduation Committee. After considering the most appropriate individuals to address the Project's particular topic, the Candidate contacts those ICP Members and requests their participation on the Committee. It is important to stipulate to each Member the role the Candidate wishes that Member to assume.
The Graduation Project Committee consists of an Advisor, two Mentors, a Supervisor, and CPC Representative. Each Member makes a commitment to work closely with the Candidate by providing guidance and feedback as the Candidate develops the Project. All Papers must include the required elements. All parties are required to attend a meeting of the entire group (set up by the Advisor in collaboration with the Candidate). All parties are expected to attend the Graduation Review, which is a meeting of the Committee and the Candidate Progression Committee held after the Project has been approved.

Advisor

The Advisor is an automatic Member of the Committee and has the following responsibilities:

a) Once the Candidate notifies the Advisor that the Committee has been formed, the Advisor contacts the Candidate Progression Committee in writing to request a CPC Reader be assigned to the Graduation Committee. This should be done as soon as possible to ensure that the CPC Reader is involved in the process as early as possible. The written request to the Candidate Progression Committee should include the Candidate’s name, the names of all Committee Members with their designated roles, and an explanation of the Project.

b) In consultation with the Candidate, the Advisor sets up two meetings of the full Committee to discuss the Project and make recommendations and revisions. The first meeting is to be scheduled soon after the Candidate Progression Committee representative is appointed. The second meeting typically scheduled toward the end of the process. Two meetings of the entire membership are required, due to the creative nature of the Project.

c) When the entire Committee has approved the final version of the Project, the Advisor requests a formal date for a Graduation Review (a joint meeting of the Candidate Progression Committee and Graduation Project Committee) by notifying the Candidate Progression Committee in writing. An edited copy of the final Project must be included in the request. The ICP office contacts the Advisor to provide the scheduled date of the meeting. The Advisor informs each Committee Member of the date and reports back to the ICP office if any Member is unable to attend.

d) At the Graduation Review with the Candidate Progression Committee and the Graduation Project Committee, the Advisor gives a report of the Candidate’s progress during the years of candidacy. This is an oral presentation only (no written report is required).

Mentors

Two Mentors take on all the responsibilities assigned a Committee Member and should be prepared to comment on the Project and the Candidate’s participation at the Graduation Review. The Mentors prepare a short critique of the Project to read aloud at the Graduation Review. This critique is to be written and handed in to be part of the Candidate’s scholastic file.

Supervisor

The Supervisor takes on all the responsibilities assigned a Committee Member and should be prepared to comment on the Paper.

CPC Representative

The CPC Representative takes on all the responsibilities assigned a Committee Member. During the entire process, the CPC Representative serves as the representative of the Candidate Progression Committee, and carries the Candidate Progression Committee’s authority for approving the Project in its final form. The CPC Representative, as well as all other Committee Members, must approve the Project before it is deemed a final Project. During the Graduation Review, the CPC Representative prepares a short critique of the Project to read aloud at the Graduation Review. This critique is to be written and handed in to be part of the Candidate’s scholastic file.

Candidate Involvement within the Committee

The Candidate may work independently or with Committee Members to develop the Project. The Candidate collaborates with the Advisor to set up two meetings of the entire Committee. The first is to be arranged as soon as a CPC Representative is appointed. The second meeting will take place toward the end of the process.

The Graduation Review

This is a meeting of the Candidate Progression Committee and the Graduation Project Committee. It takes place after the Graduation Project has been approved. The Review is an opportunity to discuss the Project, share ideas, and celebrate the completion of the Candidate’s Project and forthcoming graduation.

Time Requirements for Participation in spring Graduation Ceremony

The graduation ceremony is held each year in the spring. Four deadlines must be met in order to for the Candidate participate in the spring graduation ceremony:

NO LATER THAN THE JUNE CPC MEETING of the previous year, the Advisor must submit to the Candidate Progression Committee, the Candidate’s Literature Review and an abstract of the Project, along with a letter announcing the names and titles of the four individuals of the Candidate’s Graduation Project Committee (Advisor, Mentors, and Supervisor). The letter will include a request for a CPC Representative who will become the final Member of the Graduation Committee.

NO LATER THAN THE NOVEMBER CPC MEETING of the previous year, the Advisor must send the Candidate Progression Committee a letter stating that the entire Graduation Project Committee has approved the Candidate’s Graduation Project and requesting a date for a Graduation Review with the Candidate Progression Committee. This letter must be accompanied by an unstapled copy of the candidate’s final Graduation Project (including all written requirements).

PRIOR TO GRADUATION, all case reports and supervisory reports must be completed and submitted to the office by May 31st.

Graduation from ICP requires that the Candidate complete, in a satisfactory manner, the equivalent of four years (420 hours) of didactic coursework, including the required core courses, by the last session of the academic year.

It is the Advisor’s responsibility to urge all members of the Graduation Project Committee to pursue the Candidate’s draft Project in a timely fashion, thereby facilitating the Candidate’s opportunity to complete a final Project for the November Candidate Progression Committee deadline. If the November deadline is not honored, the Candidate may graduate at the time the Board of Directors approves the recommendation of the Candidate Progression Committee, but the Candidate may not participate in the approaching Spring graduation ceremony; however, the Candidate may participate in the Spring graduation ceremony of the following year.
Writing Suggestions

Time constraints should be considered when preparing the Project. It is recommended that the Candidate establish personal deadlines for each step of completion (from writing the abstract to completion of the final Project). When delivering a draft to Graduation Committee Members for review and suggestions, the Candidate should make every effort to present a draft free of spelling and grammatical errors.
ICP Guidelines and Policies for the

Ph.D. Doctoral Dissertation
I. INTRODUCTION

Psychoanalysis occupies a distinct and unique place among the humanities and the social/behavioral sciences. Beginning with Freud’s study of individual specimen reports, psychoanalytic inquiry has been characterized by an attempt to investigate in a systematic and rigorous manner, elusive but central aspects of psychological life, such as dreams, unconscious processes, fantasies, transference, etc. How best to conduct this inquiry is by no means a settled issue. There does not exist a set of agreed upon rules and procedures that define proper psychoanalytic methodology. Instead, the question of psychoanalytic methodology continues to evoke impassioned debate. Fundamental questions continue to be asked: for example, what constitutes psychoanalytic data? Should psychoanalysis model itself after the natural sciences or is it best understood as a hermeneutic discipline? Is it possible to quantify meaningfully, the essential components of what is curative in psychoanalytic treatment? This continued debate about methodology in psychoanalysis is an integral feature of the uniqueness of psychoanalytic inquiry.

Contemporary psychoanalysis can be characterized by theoretical pluralism, that is, the existence of multiple perspectives or frames of reference, none of which can be considered as privileged. This pluralism at the level of theory extends naturally into the realm of methodology. From this standpoint, the choice of methodology should be determined by the nature of the subject matter that is being investigated. Different methodologies raise different questions and provide different answers.

To complete the requirements for the Ph.D., the ICP candidate must apply to the Ph.D. Committee for the Ph.D. track, after two years in the general program, and having completed two years of required classes. The application fee is $250, non-refundable.

Following the completion of the required number of units for the Ph.D., the candidate will pay half tuition until completion of the Ph.D. dissertation and passage of the Orals.

II. THE DISSERTATION PROCESS

To reiterate the Dissertation process, there are five major steps in the completion of the dissertation:

A. Formation of the Dissertation Committee
B. Development of the Dissertation Proposal
C. Preliminary Oral: the proposal is presented to the Dissertation Committee
D. Development of a rough draft of the Dissertation
E. Final Oral: the Dissertation is presented to the Dissertation Committee for final discussion and approval.
These steps are described in the following.

A. The Formation of the Dissertation Committee

The Dissertation Chair/Mentor of the Dissertation Committee is selected by the candidate. He/she must be a member of ICP, must have an earned doctorate from an accredited institution, and must be knowledgeable about the general area of the dissertation topic with, ideally, expertise and interests that fit with the proposal to be developed. It is the Chair’s responsibility to oversee preparation of the dissertation from beginning to end. The Chair is concerned with the content of the dissertation and its form and organization. He/she must ensure that the guidelines for dissertation preparation are adhered to, and that all of the required elements are included. The Chair also ensures that the dissertation adheres to standards of good scholarship, and that it is written in clear, logically consistent and coherent form.

The Chair of the Dissertation Committee is also responsible for both setting up and leading dissertation committee meetings. It is at such a meeting that the proposal is approved. It is also the Chair’s responsibility to establish that a final dissertation has been prepared which has the approval of all the committee members. At the Final Oral, the dissertation is questioned and discussed, toward the end of final approval of the dissertation.

The Candidate-Selected Readers must be members of a psychoanalytic institute and must be knowledgeable about the general area of the dissertation topic and fit with the proposal to be developed. The Readers must attend all meetings of the dissertation committee.

Upon assembly of all three members of the dissertation committee, the candidate submits their names to the Ph.D. Committee Chair, who then assigns a Liaison to the candidate’s dissertation committee. The liaison must attend all meetings of the Dissertation Committee. It is his/her role to make sure that the Ph.D. program guidelines are followed.

It should be noted that the candidate has the option of changing all committee members, except the liaison member of the Ph.D. Committee. Should a candidate experience difficulties that cannot be resolved within the dissertation committee, a request may be made to an advisor to mediate the dispute. Should this not resolve the dispute, an ad hoc subcommittee from the Ph.D. Committee will be set up to address the issue. If unresolved at the level, the matter will be referred to the Board for a final and binding decision.

B. Development of the Dissertation Proposal

The dissertation proposal is a central part of the completion of the dissertation. It provides a detailed outline of the research and functions as a blueprint for the research process. It describes the content of the project, including the rationale and a plan for its execution. The proposal gives the committee an opportunity to evaluate the planned research and the candidate’s ability to carry it out. It also provides the candidate with an opportunity to receive the members’ suggestions for changes and revisions. The proposal should be developed in close collaboration with the dissertation Chair.
When developing the dissertation proposal, you are being asked first to be scholarly (which means to read thoroughly all that you find already published on your topic).

The proposal must include the following sections:

1) Statement of the problem. This section provides an introduction to your subject and formulates the questions that you will address. It should include the location of your project within the general field of psychoanalysis and a statement about the need for this particular project.

2) Statement of your thesis. This is where you state the conceptual framework for your contribution to psychoanalytic thinking.

3) Review of the literature. This section includes a review and discussion of the literature that is relevant to your subject and to the development of the thesis.

4) Methods. Review and discussion of the methods you will use to conduct your research.

5) Ethics assurances. The Ph.D. candidate must comply with the ethical standards set up by their appropriate licensing agency. Documentation on these standards and steps to ensure compliance must be included in the dissertation proposal.

6) Timeline for the completion of the research process.

C. Preliminary Oral

The dissertation proposal is presented to the Dissertation Committee so that the Committee may aid the candidate in the development process and solidify an approach with which both candidate and Committee agree. The Preliminary Oral gives the Committee the opportunity to assess whether your research project will satisfy the requirements for a Ph.D. level dissertation. The members of the Committee will respond to your proposal and may suggest revisions and changes.

All members of the Dissertation Committee must be present. Copies of your proposal must be distributed to the members of the Dissertation Committee well in advance of the scheduled date for the Preliminary Oral. You should be prepared to provide a presentation of your research project and answer questions regarding thesis, methods, literature review, etc.

If the Dissertation Committee requests changes and revisions in your proposal, you must submit a revised proposal to the Dissertation Chair who will review it with you and determine if it addresses the suggestions made by the members of the Committee. A revised proposal is then submitted to the Dissertation Committee members for final approval. If there is disagreement between the Dissertation Chair and the other members of the committee about the revised proposal, the revised proposal is then submitted to the Ph.D. Committee which will make the final decision.

D. Development of a Rough Draft of the Dissertation

In this phase, you conduct your research in accordance with the Dissertation Proposal. You prepare a draft of the dissertation as it will be presented to the Committee at the Final Presentation. You should have ongoing contact with your Dissertation Chair who will read and comment on the chapters of the draft as you write them.

E. Final Oral

In preparation for the Final Oral, you must distribute a copy of the completed rough draft to the members of the Dissertation Committee. After all members have had an opportunity to review the completed draft, a candidate can choose to meet with each individual member of the committee to work out questions and problems. Then a meeting is called by the Dissertation Chair for a discussion of the draft. At this meeting, the Committee either approves the draft or suggests further revisions. It is the responsibility of the Chair to determine that a draft has been completed that has the approval of all Committee members. The Chair should then schedule the Final Oral.

The Final Oral is the final evaluation of the completed dissertation. All members of the Dissertation Committee must be present. In addition, members of the Ph.D. Committee will be present. The candidate may, at his or her discretion, invite others to attend the Final Oral. You will make a comprehensive presentation, describing the rationale for the project, the thesis, the methods used and the results of your research. You should be prepared for a scholarly response to comments and questions regarding the dissertation. Upon the successful completion of the Final Oral and all other requirements, you will formally receive the Ph.D..

The Candidate should complete his/her Final Oral no later than January to participate in the ceremony in the spring.

III. Coursework Requirements

The required number of units to complete a Ph.D. is 37 units. Ph.D. Candidates must complete the same courses and 32 units required of the Psy.D. candidates, and take an additional 5 units of research courses. The required research courses are: 1) Philosophy of Science (1 unit, or 15 hours); Research Methods (2 units, or 30 hours); and 3) Dissertation Writing, APA Style (2 units or 30 hours).

During this period, the student must choose a Dissertation Committee, consisting of a Chair/Mentor and 2 readers, along with a member of the Ph.D. Committee, serving as liaison. While all committee members must possess doctoral degrees, two of these members must have a Ph.D.. In the process of the Dissertation Writing class, the candidate will work on formulating a proposal for his/her dissertation with the Chair of his/her committee.
The required Ph.D. classes will be offered on a rotating bi-annual basis. One year, Research Methods will be offered, the following year, Philosophy of Science and Dissertation Writing. Applying early to the Ph.D. track allows the Curriculum Committee to plan for these required classes accordingly. Candidates will be charged at the current tuition rates.

Following the completion of the required number of units for the Ph.D., the candidate will pay half tuition until completion of the Ph.D. dissertation and passage of the Orals.

IV. Graduation Requirements

In addition to the coursework requirements as mentioned above, the Ph.D. candidate is required to satisfy all the same requirements as the Psy.D. candidate in terms of control cases, supervision, and personal analysis. The candidate’s advisor is required to sign off on all requirements in order to graduate. And the Ph.D. dissertation must be completed and approved by the Candidate’s Ph.D. dissertation committee at the Final Oral Defense. The Ph.D. Committee liaison will then present this information to the ICP Board of Directors for final approval. The Board approval will then be sent to the CPC in preparation for the spring graduation ceremony.

Approved by the ICP Board of Directors 11/8/98

Revised 8/13

V. Frequently Asked Questions:

1. Where do I find the information on getting the Ph.D. degree? The Guidelines and Policies for the Doctoral Dissertation (this manual) is your bible. Use that with the broader document procedures Manual for Candidates. In addition, sample dissertation materials are available at ICP through the administrative staff. If you have any individual questions about the Ph.D. degree that is not answered through the written materials, please contact the Ph.D. Committee chairperson.

2. What are the course requirements for the Ph.D.? There are 37 units required for the Ph.D. You must include in your coursework, three specific classes: Philosophy of Science (1 unit), Psychoanalytic Scholarship: Research Methods (2 units) and the Dissertation Writing Seminar (2 or more units).

3. When should I start thinking about a dissertation? This is entirely discretionary, the earlier you have a project in mind, the easier to move through the ICP curriculum and think about contemporary literature to support your thesis perspective. Please note that all required Psy.D. classes need to be completed before submitting an application to the Ph.D. Program.

4. Is there a preferred time sequence for taking Ph.D. classes? All three classes will be helpful to the construction of your dissertation proposal, so the coursework should be considered an early step in the process. Keep in mind that the Ph.D. classes are offered every other year.
5. How do I pick a committee? Pay attention to people who you respect, particularly if they have expressed an interest in those areas you're interested in. Make sure that given the constraints of people’s availability and scheduling, you give yourself ample time. Select people who could give you subject expertise and design of study.

6. What are the financial obligations of doing the Ph.D.? As with any degree program at ICP, you pay tuition while you are completing your coursework. Once you complete all coursework, you pay half of the tuition until your Ph.D. process is complete. All Psy.D. tuition must be paid up and current, or else specific payment plans must be coordinated and approved with the Treasurer of ICP.

7. Any other requirements? The Ph.D. candidate is required to satisfy all the same requirements as the Psy.D. candidate in terms of control cases, supervision, and personal analysis. The candidate’s advisor is required to sign off on all requirements in order to graduate.

VI. Format Instructions for the Dissertation

This manual is to serve as a guide in the preparation of the final version of the dissertation. A particular format for the final version of the manuscript is required in order for the dissertation to be accepted by the Institute Library and for copyright registration with the Library of Congress. The candidate is advised to consult style manual, for example, A Manual for Writers, by Kate L. Turabian, as an additional resource in the preparation of the manuscript.

The manuscript is to be free of grammatical and spelling errors. It is recommended that the candidate make use of an outside editor or proofreader if necessary.

Dissertation Format Checking and Filing Procedures

The candidate is to submit the original copy of the final manuscript, including the signature page, to the Institute office. Laser, letter quality and impact printing are acceptable type; dot matrix is not. After the manuscript is found to conform to the format requirements, the final approved copy will be placed permanently in the Institute Library.

Library Copies and Binding

The candidate is to submit to the Institute Library the original copy on at least 20-pound bond, water-marked paper, with at least 25% rag (or cotton) content. The candidate will be responsible for binding the copy for the institute Library, and any other copies desired. The binding should be black leather with gold lettering. It is customary for the candidate to give each member of the Dissertation Committee a copy of the dissertation.
Margins

- Top Margin: 1 inch
- Right Margin: 1 inch
- Left Margin: 1 ½ inch
- Bottom Margin: 1 ¼ inch
- Page Numbers: 5/8” inch from bottom of page

Spacing

The manuscript is to be double-spaced throughout, except where appropriate, such as signature page, vita, table of contents, figures and tables, footnotes, etc.

Organization of the manuscript

Order of Pages

1. Title Page (Template located on page 87, appendix XII)
2. Copyright Page (optional: call Library of Congress for information and forms for registration. Telephone No.: (202) 707-6787 or (202) 707-3000. (refer page 88, appendix XIII)
3. Signature page (refer to page 89, appendix XIV for template)
4. Dedication page (optional)
5. Table of Contents (refer to page 90, appendix XV for template)
6. List of tables, graphs and figures (if applicable)
7. List of appendices (optional)
8. Acknowledgements (optional)
9. Vita (refer to page 91, appendix XVI for template)
10. Abstract (The abstract should have the candidate’s full legal name.) (refer to page 92, appendix XVII for template)

The Text

The text begins after the abstract page and is divided into chapters.

References & Appendices

List of references and samples of consent form (refer to page 93, appendix XVIII for sample), questionnaires, or written instruction for testing materials when applicable should be given.

Exception

If there are compelling reasons that make this format not feasible, the candidate has the option of petitioning the Ph.D. committee for permission to use a different format.

Article 16. Graduate Degrees

71880. Doctorate Degrees

(a)(1) The Doctor of Philosophy degree (“Ph.D.”) is a research-oriented degree requiring a minimum of three years of full-time graduate education or the equivalent in part time study.

(2) The Doctor of Philosophy may be awarded only to students who have complete a program of study that includes research methodology and who have demonstrated learning achievement through original research directly attributable to the student.

(3) Program leading to the Doctor of Philosophy degree shall include substantial instruction in both theory and research at advanced levels in a designated field and specialty. Each educational program leading to a Doctor of Philosophy degree shall involve preparation for scholarship and systematic inquiry.

71885. Doctorate Committees

(a)(1) Each Doctor of Philosophy program shall include a minimum of two formal evaluations of the student by a doctoral committee.

(2) The first evaluation shall consider the students qualifications, including the students' knowledge, skills, and conceptual framework, for understanding rigorous inquiry into the students designated field.

(3) The second evaluation shall consider the design procedures and products of a formal original inquiry proposed and completed by the student.

(4) The doctoral committee shall be composed of at least three members of the institutes own faculty.

(c) All of the faculty who serve on each students doctoral examining committee shall have all of the following qualifications:

1) All of the faculty shall have doctoral degrees.
2) The chair and the majority of the committee shall have degrees related to the student’s field of investigation.

3) A minimum of 50 percent of the faculty on the committee shall have degrees conferred by an institution accredited by an accrediting association recognized by the United States Department of Education or the American Bar Association, unless the accreditation does not exist.

4) All of the faculty shall have three or more years of field work or research experience related to their degrees obtained after they obtained their degrees.

5) All of the faculty shall have been active in their field of scholarship or profession within the five-year period preceding their participation on the committee.

(d) The formal evaluation procedures shall provide the committee as a whole with the opportunity to jointly examine the candidate.

(e) If the candidate is not physically present and the evaluation must take place by telephone or other means of electronic communication, one of the following shall apply:

1) One faculty member on the students doctoral committee from the main location (i.e., the state in which the program is licensed or otherwise officially approved) must be present at the location where the doctoral student is examined.

2) A proctor, selected and approved by the doctoral committee, shall sit as an observer with the student at the distant location and verify, under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California, the identity of the student and the fact that the student received no prompting by anyone and did not have access to unallowed materials during the evaluation process.

(f) If a project includes more than one student, the individual students role and contributions shall be clearly identified and documented.

(g) The institution shall maintain a written record of the evaluations. This record shall include the names and signatures of all committee members who participated in the evaluations.

ICP NON-DEGREE PROGRAMS
September 10, 2015 – May 15, 2016

Syllabi are located in appendix XXI, page 356.
Psychoanalytic Psychotherapy Program

The Psychoanalytic Psychotherapy Program is a twenty-week case focused program centered on concepts and practices of contemporary psychoanalytic psychology.

The program consists of:

- Bi-weekly seminars of 2.5 hours each taught by an ICP member or advanced candidate member with expertise in their areas.
- Bi-weekly small group consultation with an ICP member.
- This is not a degree-granting program.
- Participants receive CE/CMEs commensurate with attendance and a certificate of completion if they attend the full nine months of weekly seminars and supervision groups. Recommended readings are provided online.

Admissions Requirements:

- An application and application fee are required.
- Applicants are required to have a minimum of a graduate mental health degree or the equivalent (MSW, MFT, Ph.D., MD/psychiatrist).
- Applicants are required to be licensed in the state in which they practice and must show proof of current licensure.
- Applicants are required to carry malpractice insurance in the state in which they practice and must show proof of their current policy.

Extension Division Program

This program offers classes in contemporary psychoanalysis to both licensed therapists, those in training for a mental health degree and those who are not yet licensed.

The program consists of:

- The program is structured in two parts: A one-year Foundations Class which provides the student with the basic concepts of analytic theory and technique and an advanced Class that builds on the first year to explore more complex and sophisticated ideas and applications.
- Classes meet once a month for 10 consecutive months.
- Classes are taught by ICP members and candidates with expertise in the class subject.
• Recommended readings are provided online.

• This is not a degree-granting program.

Admission Requirements:

• An application and application fee are required.

• Participation is open to licensed and non-licensed mental health professionals (i.e.; MFT, MSW, Psy.D., Ph.D., MD)

• An application and application fee are required.

• Courses and number of CME/CEUs vary depending on the individual program.

A. LEGALLY BINDING CLAUSE
This agreement is a legally binding instrument when signed by the candidate and accepted by ICP. Your signature on this agreement acknowledges that you have been given reasonable time to read and understand it and that you have been given: (a) a written statement of the refund policy including examples of how it applies and; (b) a catalog including a description of the courses and educational services including all material facts concerning ICP and the program which are likely to affect your decision to enroll. Immediately upon signing this agreement, you will be given a copy of it to retain.

B. COURSE HOURS
This agreement is for the ICP Psychoanalytic Training Program:

Candidate Initials

18 months or 300 hours of 4 times per week of psychoanalysis with an ICP Training and Supervising Analyst is required. Personal psychoanalysis is not covered by tuition fee: candidate pays fee on an individual basis; all fees with training analyst are negotiated and paid between the Training and Supervising Analyst and candidate privately without ICP’s involvement.

Candidate Initials

A Candidate in part-time training is not permitted to begin coursework at ICP before the initiation of a minimum two times per week personal psychotherapy with an ICP-approved Training Analyst. Upon becoming a full-time candidate, the personal psychoanalysis required is a minimum of 4 sessions per week for a period total of at least 300 hours.

C. STUDENT’S RIGHT TO CANCEL

The student has the right to cancel the enrollment agreement and obtain a full refund of all tuition paid through attendance at the first class session, or the seventh day after enrollment, whichever is later. You may cancel this enrollment agreement and obtain a refund by providing written notice to The President(s), ICP, 10780 Santa Monica Blvd., Suite 350, Los Angeles, California 90025-4720, by the following date: ___________________. See refund policy below.

D. REFUND POLICY

Students who withdraw by the first class session, or the seventh day after enrollment, whichever is later, will be refunded all tuition paid. After the first week of class, but before 60% of the course is completed, tuition earned by the Institute will be calculated on a prorated basis. After 60% of the course is completed, there is no refund.

If the student has received federal student financial aid funds, the student is entitled to a refund of moneys not paid from federal student financial aid program funds.

A definition of the enrollment period at ICP is that each semester or session is a separate enrollment/contract for the candidate and the total of all the enrollment agreements (contracts) equal the total courses and units necessary to meet all course requirements for the degree.

Refund of Tuition

Refunds are processed only upon written notice or discontinuance and application for a withdrawal and refund process has been processed. The refund amount is calculated by using the refund formula above and takes approximately 30 days to process as in accordance with California Education Codes.

Refund Explanation

The prorated amount is calculated as follows: The tuition fee is divided by the total weeks of the enrollment period, and this quotient is the weekly program charge. In order to get the amount of tuition owed to ICP the weekly program charge is by the weeks the student attended the program.

Refund Example

If the enrollment agreement is for 4 units the agreement will equal 52.5 clock hours. If the candidate withdraws and has only completed 20 hours of the 52.5 hours of the agreement, the candidate has 32.5 remaining hours on this agreement and it is considered a pro-rated refund. Here is how the calculation of this student's refund would work:

In order to get to the refund amount you take the semester tuition fee of $1,500.00 and divide this amount by the 52.5 hours the candidate enrolled to attend on this agreement. This amount which is $28.58 is the per hour charge, you must now multiply this figure of $28.50 by the 20 hours that the candidate attended on this agreement. This is the amount the candidate owes the college for their attendance. The amount in this example is $571.60, if the candidate had paid the institute $1,500.00 on this enrollment agreement, their refund would be $928.40.

Effect of Refund on Promissory Notes:

If the ICP is the holder of any promissory note(s) from the student, the ICP shall adjust any promissory note(s) to reflect the new total owing to the ICP. However, both student and ICP agree that the terms and conditions of any promissory note(s) shall remain unchanged, unless the refund causes the entire amount of the promissory note(s) to be refunded, in which case the promissory note(s) shall be discharged.
E. CONTRACT AMOUNT AND SCHEDULE OF CHARGES
The Candidate is responsible for the following fees and charges: PROGRAM FEES:

NOTICE

YOU MAY ASSERT AGAINST THE HOLDER OF THE PROMISSORY NOTE YOU SIGNED IN ORDER TO FINANCE THE COST OF THE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM ALL THE CLAIMS AND DEFENSES THAT YOU COULD ASSERT AGAINST THIS INSTITUTION, UP TO THE AMOUNT YOU HAVE ALREADY PAID UNDER THE PROMISSORY NOTE.

If a student obtains a loan to pay for an educational program, the student will have to repay the full amount of the loan plus interest, less the amount of any refund, and that, if the student receives federal student financial aid funds, the student is entitled to a refund of the moneys not paid from federal financial aid funds. (CEC §94909(a)(11))

If a student is eligible for a loan guaranteed by the federal or state government and the student defaults on the loan, both of the following may occur:

1) The federal or state government or a loan guarantee agency may take action against the student, including applying any income tax refund to which the person is entitled to reduce the balance owed on the loan.

2) The student may not be eligible for any other federal student financial aid at another institution or other government assistance until the loan is repaid.

STUDENT TUITION RECOVERY FUND (STRF):

You must pay the state-imposed assessment for the Student Tuition Recovery Fund (STRF) if all of the following applies to you:

1. You are a student in an educational program, who is a California resident, or are enrolled in a residency program, and prepay all of part of your tuition either by cash, guaranteed student loans, or personal loans, and
2. Your total charges are not paid by any third-party payer such as an employer, government program or other payer unless you have a separate agreement to repay the third party.

You are not eligible for protection from the STRF and you are not required to pay the STRF assessment if either of the following applies:

1. You are not a California resident, or are not enrolled in a residency program, or
2. Your total charges are paid by a third party, such as an employer, government program or other payer, and you have no separate agreement to repay the third party.

The State of California created the Student Tuition Recovery Fund (STRF) to relieve or mitigate economic losses suffered by students in educational programs who are California residents, or are enrolled in a residency program attending certain schools regulated by the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education.

You may be eligible for STRF if you are a California resident or are enrolled in a residency program, prepaid tuition, paid STRF assessment, and suffered an economic loss as a result of any of the following:

1. The school closed before the course of instruction was completed.
2. The school's failure to pay refunds or charges on behalf of a student to a third party for license fees or any other purpose, or to provide equipment or materials for which a charge was collected within 180 days before the closure of the school.
3. The school's failure to pay or reimburse loan proceeds under a federally guaranteed student loan program as required by law or to pay or reimburse proceeds received by the school prior to closure in excess of tuition and other costs.
4. There was a material failure to comply with the Act or the Division within 30-days before the school closed or, if the material failure began earlier than 30-days prior to closure, the period determined by the Bureau.
5. An inability after diligent efforts to prosecute, prove, and collect on a judgment against the institution for a violation of the Act.

However, no claim can be paid to any student without a social security number or a taxpayer identification number.

This is a state mandated fee as required by CA Education Code 94810(a)(10), please see www.bppe.ca.gov for current rate percentages and info on refund requests.

The non-refundable STRF fee is $0.00.

Notice to Prospective Degree Program Students

This institution is approved by the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education to offer degree programs. To continue to offer degree programs, this institution must meet the following requirements:

- Become institutionally accredited by an accrediting agency recognized by the United States Department of Education, with the scope of the accreditation covering at least one degree program.

- Achieve accreditation candidacy or pre-accreditation, as defined in regulations, by July 1, 2017, and full accreditation by July 1, 2020.

If this institution stops pursuing accreditation, the following will happen:

- The institution must stop all enrollment in its degree programs, and
- Provide a teach-out to finish the educational program or provide a refund.

An institution that fails to comply with accreditation requirements by the required dates shall have its approval to offer degree programs automatically suspended.

NOTICE CONCERNING TRANSFERABILITY OF CREDITS AND CREDENTIALS EARNED AT OUR INSTITUTION

The transferability of credits you earn at the Institute of Contemporary Psychoanalysis (ICP) is at the complete discretion of an institution to which you may seek to transfer. Acceptance of the Psy.D. or psychoanalyst certification you earn in ICP is also at the complete discretion of the institution you may seek to transfer. If the course units, Psy.D. or psychoanalyst certification that you earn at this institution are not accepted at the institution to which you seek to transfer, you may be required to repeat some or all of your coursework at that institution. For this reason, you should make certain that your attendance at this institution will meet your educational goals. This may include contacting an institution to which you may seek to transfer after attending ICP to determine if your units taken, Psy.D. or psychoanalytic certificate awarded will transfer.

Any questions a student may have regarding this enrollment agreement that have not been satisfactorily answered by the institution may be directed to the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education at:

2535 Capitol Oaks Drive, Suite 400, Sacramento, CA, 95833
P.O. Box 980818, West Sacramento, CA, 95798—9818

Telephone: 888—370—7589 or 916—431—6959 Fax: 916—263—1897

A student or any member of the public may file a complaint about this institution with the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education by calling 888—370—7589 or by completing a complaint form, which can be obtained on the bureau’s internet website, www.bppe.ca.gov. Prior to signing this enrollment agreement, you must be given a catalog or brochure and a School Performance Fact sheet, which you are encouraged to review prior to signing this agreement. These documents contain important policies and performance data for this institution. This institution is required to have you sign and date the information included in the School Performance Fact sheet related to completion rates, placement rates, license examination passage rates, and salaries or wages, and the most recent free—year cohort default rate, if applicable prior to signing this agreement.

Total charges for the current period of attendance: $3000 tuition/$100 admin fee per year.

The total amount for all fees, charges and services the candidate is obligated to pay to ICP for the course or educational services:

- $12,400 for the 32 units for the PsyD program
• Yearly tuition fees must be paid before the start of classes. All fees are subject to periodic review.
• Fees for personal analysis and supervision are established privately between analyst or supervisor and candidate.

Prior to signing this enrollment agreement, you must be given a catalog or brochure and a School Performance Fact Sheet, which you are encouraged to review prior to signing this agreement. Notes on the ‘Certification of Analytic Hours’ Form

This form is designed for reporting analytic hours. As stated in the Manual for Candidates, the personal psychoanalysis required for Candidates is a minimum of 4 sessions per week. A total of 300 hours must be reported.

The Candidate and analyst are to decide how often the form needs to be completed and signed in order to minimize any potential for the reporting process to be disruptive. This can be done on a weekly, monthly, or annual basis. The Candidate is responsible for maintaining and submitting the form on an annual basis to his/her Advisor. The Advisor will then report only the number of hours on the annual Advisor Report Form. The completed form will not be maintained in the Candidate’s file. After the Advisor has certified the number of hours, the signed form need not be kept at all.

Analysis, with an ICP Training and Supervising Analyst, is a requirement of the educational process. Any extended interruption beyond two months must be addressed as quickly as possible and reported to the Advisor by the Candidate. If the Candidate has trouble continuing in an analysis, the Candidate should consult the Advisor.

The Candidate should address questions or concerns regarding this form to their Advisor.

The First Final Draft of Graduation Paper Description and Expectations

The first final draft, submitted to the graduation committee for evaluation and feedback is a coherent and completed paper. It includes:

1. An Abstract or summary of the paper.
2. In the introduction a thesis and/or statement of the problem and/or focused question.
3. In the body of the paper a literature review that supports and illuminates the thesis, problem, or question.
4. In the body of the paper clinical material, if relevant.
5. A discussion and conclusion deriving from the literature review and clinical material.
6. A bibliography in acceptable professional psychoanalytic form.

Please note: This may be the first of several drafts.
*Description of Graduation paper Abstract:

The Abstract is a summary of the contents of your project, a synopsis of what you have written about. It should begin with a compressed or condensed statement of your purpose in writing this work; should include concise details of the main argument you are making and how you are making it; and end with a summary statement, your conclusion or conclusions. The Abstract should be both internally consistent and consistent with the project itself.

SUBJECT CONSENT FORM

I hereby agree to participate in a research project directed by Jane Doe, M.A., as a part of the requirements for a doctorate in psychoanalysis.

This project is designed to study the relationship between patterns of acculturation and variety of attitudes, feelings and behaviors, some of which relate to food and eating. I understand that my participation in this study involves completing three questionnaires which should take about 10 minutes of my time. While there are no immediate benefits to me as a result of my participation, I understand that the results of this research will help broaden our understanding of how different culture life styles are related to attitudes and behaviors concerning body image and food.

I understand that my participation is not expected to result in any risk to me beyond possible momentary and mild discomfort, I understand that I may contact the researcher of this study (phone and address listed below) to arrange the free consultation and/or professional referral. I also understand that I may withdraw from the project at any time by simply refusing to continue to answer questionnaires and returning the study materials to the researcher without any negative consequences.

Additionally, I understand that the information obtained from my participation will be kept totally confidential. My name will not be applied to any questionnaires I answer, and code numbers will be used to ensure anonymity. Finally, If I have any questions, I may address them to the researcher of this study or the dissertation supervisor, Dr. John Doe, at (xxx)xxx-xxxx.

CLASS SYLLABI
Introduction to Clinical Psychoanalytic Concepts
Instructors: Estelle Shane, Ph.D. & Joye Weisel-Barth, Ph.D., Psy.D.

Our Basic Concepts course has a three-fold aim: to provide candidates with an historical understanding of psychoanalytic theory, to facilitate their integration of thematic approaches from multiple disciplines, and to familiarize them with clinical history and practices in psychoanalysis.

We believe that a good Basic Concepts course should provide an overview of the ways in which psychoanalysis—from its origins in Freud to Ego Psychology, Object Relations, Interpersonal Psychoanalysis, Self Psychology, Relational Psychoanalysis and other contemporary contextual models—is a story of continuities and discontinuities shaped by a variety of language games. We propose to use elements drawn from four texts to tell the historical part of the story: Textbook of Psychoanalysis (Gabbard, Litowitz, Williams), Freud and Beyond (Mitchell and Black), Object Relations and Psychoanalytic Theory (Mitchell and Greenberg) and Creative Readings: Essays on Seminal Analytic Works (Ogden). Then, moving to the contemporary scene, we will select iconic articles from various current psychoanalytic approaches to illustrate how key concepts in psychoanalytic theory have moved into the present scene.

Having attended to the historical overview, we want them to illuminate the enduring themes and strategies that are in all analytic models:

1) identification and theoretical conceptualization of the patient and his issues;
2) stated and unstated attitudes toward patient, analyst, and process;
3) stated and unstated understandings of human motivation;
4) theory of therapeutic goals and action;
5) treatment plans to meet these articulated goals;
6) theory of relational interaction including the respective roles of analyst and patient,
7) language system to describe these analytic concepts.

When it comes to the examination of contemporary analytic schools, the class should explore both the significant ideas and beliefs that distinguish contemporary analysis from its predecessors, and also the differences in language and ideas among the many contemporary analytic schools extant in this present pluralistic world. With respect to this last aim, we would like to identify and differentiate substantive differences from putative differences among these contemporary schools, differences that, in fact, reflect idiosyncratic cultures, personalities, and politics. As indicated above, for this part of the course we will select outstanding individual papers to illustrate the richness of the psychoanalytic imagination and it’s unfolding.

Course Purpose:

The purpose of this course is to introduce the basic concepts of Self Psychology, including their early development and the contemporary transformations they have undergone. It is also to explore the post-Kohutian perspectives that are impacting contemporary psychoanalysis and to illustrate their application to clinical work.

Course Goals:

1. To understand the development of Self Psychology.
2. To understand the basic concepts in Self Psychology, e.g., grandiose self, idealized parent imago, mirror transference, idealized transference, empathy, selfobject, etc.
3. To understand Self Psychology’s departures from classical theory and technique.
4. To formulate psychoanalytic issues from the Self Psychological perspective.
5. To ascertain the value of Self Psychology for clinical work.
6. To understand the contemporary trends in Self Psychology, e.g., intersubjectivity theory, self and motivational systems theory, developmental systems self psychology, specificity theory, pathological accommodation, etc.
7. To reconceptualize key psychoanalytic concepts, e.g., transference, countertransference, defense, resistance, development, therapeutic action, motivation, affect, etc., through the lenses of classical and contemporary Self Psychology.
8. To apply classical and contemporary Self Psychology perspectives to clinical work.

Commentary for the First Session

Arthur Malin, M.D.

The first 2 sessions in the course on Self Psychology will be an introduction to the work of Heinz Kohut. I am including a bibliography of Kohut’s basic works in Self Psychology for your reference. I am also including a page on Self Psychology: Basic Concepts and a page of Definitions in Self Psychology.

For the first session please read the required readings as well as the Commentary on the Bibliography.

COMMENTARY ON THE BIBLIOGRAPHY

This Seminar will offer an introduction to Self Psychology mainly through the writings of Heinz Kohut. Other writers are now making original contributions to the literature on Self Psychology, but Kohut's work is the primary source for an understanding of the development of his approach in psychoanalysis.

It will be difficult to cover all the essential papers and books in 3 sessions. I will attempt to deal with this problem by covering a good part of the material in lecture form while allowing time for discussion.

"Introspection, Empathy and Psychoanalysis: An Examination of the Relationship Between Mode of Observation and Theory," (1959, # 1) is of particular significance. Although this paper was written during the time when Kohut was still a classical analyst and ego psychologist, his comments on empathy as a mode of observation are central to the development of the theory of Self Psychology. The significance of empathy in psychoanalytic treatment is discussed in more detail in the two books that are required reading (#6,#9).

In "Forms and Transformations of Narcissism," (1966, # 2) Kohut introduces the concept of a separate line of development for narcissism. In addition, there is a discussion of early archaic forms of narcissism, what is referred to in this contribution as the narcissistic self and the idealized parent imago. It is interesting to note that this paper was delivered as the plenary address at the meeting of the American Psychoanalytic Association in Dec. 1965.

"The Psychoanalytic Treatment of Narcissistic Personality Disorders: Outline of a Systematic Approach," (1968, # 3) introduces a number of important concepts. The term grandiose self replaces narcissistic self introduced in the 1966 paper. The two basic archaic narcissistic configurations are the grandiose self and the idealized parent imago. In this paper Kohut also introduces the concept of narcissistic transferences. The idealizing transference is the therapeutic activation of the idealized parent imago, and the mirror transference is the therapeutic activation of the grandiose self. There are also significant comments on countertransference reactions during the therapeutic mobilization of the narcissistic transferences. This is one of the first times that the diagnosis of Narcissistic Personality Disorder is described in the literature.

In many ways, the 1968 paper is the outline for Kohut's first major book, THE ANALYSIS OF THE SELF. (1971, # 4) This book contains a detailed discussion of the themes already mentioned, namely, narcissism as a separate line of development, archaic narcissistic structures consisting of the grandiose self and the idealized parent imago, narcissistic transferences consisting of the mirror transference and the idealizing transference, and countertransference reactions when working with narcissistic personality disorders. The concept of self-object is first introduced in this book, as well as the concept of optimal frustration which leads to transmuting internalization and structure building of the self.

However, there is still the recognition of instinctual drives and structural theory. The new ideas of Self Psychology presented in this book are considered parallel to structural Oedipal conflicts which are seen mainly in the neuroses. This is the idea of complimentarily. In other words, at the time of the publication of this book the theory of the Psychology of the Self did not rule out the classical psychoanalytic theory of the predominance of drives, structural conflict and the Oedipus complex in the neuroses. This is a difficult book to read but if you become interested in Self Psychology you will find this book rewarding.

"Thoughts on Narcissism and Narcissistic Rage," (1972, # 5) was published only one year after the ANALYSIS OF THE SELF but contained a significant departure from instinct theory in the classic analytical point of view. Rage is described as the reaction to frustration and therefore not a manifestation of instinct. This paper was written at a time when there were rumblings of dissatisfaction by a number of analysts regarding concepts of psychic energy, libido theory and metapsychology.

THE RESTORATION OF THE SELF, (1977, # 6) Kohut's second book, is a very significant departure from classical analysis and can be properly seen as the beginning of Self Psychology as an independent theory in psychoanalysis. In this book the claim is made that in the Psychology of the Self in the broad sense, the self is seen as the "center of the psychological universe." In the narrow sense, the self is seen as a “content of the mental apparatus”. Kohut never gave up some allegiance to the concept of complementarity, meaning that the Psychology of the Self can exist parallel to structural, Oedipal theory. This book is a more theoretical, philosophical and speculative work, but offers an important view of a turning point in Kohut's development of Self Psychology. The concept of self-object transference is introduced to replace narcissistic transference. His book makes a major argument that the theory of the Psychology of the Self is necessary to psychoanalytic understanding. We will discuss the implications of these significant departures from classical analytic theory and technique. Even the goals of termination can sometimes be different as exemplified in the first chapter.

"The Disorders of the Self and Their Treatment: An Outline," (1978, # 7) is an excellent summary and also contributes a discussion of varieties of self pathology. In this paper, and from then on, the spelling of selfobject is without the hyphen.

“The Two Analyzes of Mr. Z", (1979, #8)_ is a well known paper in which Kohut describes the difference between a first, classical analysis and then a second, Self Psychological analysis with the same patient.

HOW DOES ANALYSIS CURE?, (1984, # 9) is an attempt to answer the critics of Self Psychology, and an important final summary statement. Kohut goes over all of his main contributions and introduces a third selfobject transference, the alter ego or twinship transference. This book was published posthumously and Kohut worked on it right up to the time of his death.

6. Restoration of the Self, 1977, N.Y., IUP

SELF PSYCHOLOGY: BASIC CONCEPTS

1. Self object transferences
   a) Mirror Transference
      i) in the narrow sense
      ii) merger through extension of the grandiose self
   b) Idealizing transference
   c) Alter-ego transference

2. Psychoanalytic cure
   a) Structure formation via optimal frustration and transmuting internalization
   b) Move from archaic modes of contact to empathic resonance
   c) Empathy with one’s self

3. Lines of development in self psychology
   a) Narcissism as a separate line of development from object love
   b) Lines of development of the bi-polar self in all three sectors, from archaic to adult
   c) Lines of development of aggression
      i) Aggression alloyed with assertiveness
      ii) Destructive aggression secondary to frustration
      iii) (Contrasted to aggression as a breakdown product)
   d) Line of development of libido (healthy affection contrasted to libido as breakdown product)

4. Empathy, the vicarious introspective stance of the analyst

5. Countertransference responses to selfobjecttransferences
6. Interpretation: understanding and explaining
7. Disintegration anxiety as contrasted with classical situations of danger
8. Defensive structures and compensatory structures
9. Self psychological concept of defense and resistance

DEFINITIONS IN SELF PSYCHOLOGY

EMPATHY
I. Vicarious Introspection
II. The capacity to think and feel one’s self into the inner life of another person.
III. A mode of listening - from the point of view of the other
IV. A method of affective communication.

SELF
I. An independent center of initiative.
II. An independent recipient of impressions.
III. The organization of experience (therefore a structure).
IV. The self develops as an independent center for initiating, organizing and integrating motivation. The sense of self arises from experiencing that initiating, organizing and integrating. Experience has an active (agent) and a passive (receptor) mode.

SELFOBJECT
I. A person or a thing or an abstract concept such as country, which is experienced by the individual as part of the self. Selfobjects develop from the primitive, archaic states to mature selfobjects. Essentially it is selfobject functions which are greatest significance.

SELFOBJECT TRANSFERENCE
I. The transference in which the selfobject function of the therapist is of great importance.

Class Schedule
* Available on PEP
 Reading from Kohut’s book How Does Analysis Cure?

Session 1: (September 10) Overview and History of Self Psychology – Estelle Shane, Ph.D. and Carol Mayhew, Ph.D.

Malin, A. Commentary on Self Psychology – please read the commentary which is included with the syllabus.

Session 2: (September 17) Empathic mode of Listening - Carol Mayhew, Ph.D.

Recommended Reading:

Session 3: (September 24) Self Psychology – An Overview – Carol Mayhew, Ph.D.

Session 4: (October 1) Self Psychological Perspectives on Aggression and the Oedipus Complex - Carol Mayhew, Ph.D.

Recommended:
Session 5: (October 8) Self Psychological Perspectives on Defense and Resistance, Self Psychology Applied, and Forward Edge Concept - Carol Mayhew, Ph.D.

Session 6: (October 22) Contemporary Self Psychological Perspectives: Self and Motivational Systems and Listening Perspectives – Carol Mayhew, Ph.D.

Session 7: (October 29) Self Psychology the Theory, as Viewed Then and Now and in Relation to Other Perspectives – Estelle Shane, Ph.D.

Session 8: (November 5) The Relationship between Structured Theory – In Particular, Self Psychology – and the Specificity of Psychoanalytic Process – Howard Bacal, M.D.

Bacal, H. (2011), How specificity theory changes clinical practice, (Ch. 3), in The Power of Specificity in Psychotherapy: When Therapy Works and When It Doesn't, Lanham, Maryland: Jason Aronson, pp. 15-29.

Session 9: (November 12) Self Psychology after Kohut, including Complex Systems Perspective and Cross-Cultural and Socio-economic Issues – Carol Mayhew, Ph.D.

Session 10: (December 3) Self Psychological Perspectives – Case Discussion- Carol Mayhew, Ph.D.

SESSION 1 BASIC CONCEPTS: Introduction to course, the theory and practice of Intersubjective Systems Theory, foundations, and historical context:

This session offers an overview of the central tenets of Intersubjective Systems Theory, along with an explanation of the arc of the course. The goal of this class is to provide a map of the territory we will traverse and lay the foundations for gaining a deeper understanding of IST concepts and therapeutic interventions as the course proceeds. We will cover the history and development of intersubjective-systems the phenomenological-contextual systems perspective of IST grew from certain philosophical concepts which provide a foundation and guiding principles for theoretical and clinical understandings. We will cover those that are centrally important: metaphysics, phenomenology, phenomenological-contextualism, the hermeneutics of trust, perspectivalism, fallibility, etc.

SESSION 2. SUBJECTIVITY.
The “Three Musketeers” of IST, their collaboration and an introduction to their major passions: Robert D. Stolorow (trauma and mortality, the work of Heidegger), George E. Atwood (trauma and extreme states, existentialism, the arts, and what it is to be human) and Bernard Brandchaft (pathological accommodation, the impact of the dictates of antiquity). Other contributors: Daphne S. Stolorow (affectivity), Donna Orange (clinical hosting), William J. Coburn (attitudes), and the next generation.

n.b. The assignment for the final class will be to discuss your subjectivity and how it impacts the intersubjective field and treatment of your training cases (or long-term) patients.

SESSION 3, BEING-IN-THE-WORLD. AFFECTIVITY AND THE ORGANIZATION OF WORLDLY EXPERIENCE.
Affects are considered to be the central motivating factor in experience, impacting development and pathogenesis. We will look at the impact of emotional pain, and explore what is meant by subjective contextualism, the significance of meaning-making, and at how an emotional world is emergent across the life-span.

READINGS:

SESSION 4, MAINTAINING A WORLD OF EMOTIONAL EXPERIENCE.
This will lead us to a consideration of how experience is organized, maintained, and how change occurs. We will discuss a systems view of selfhood, character, defenses/protections (including a self-ideal and subsequent self-loathing), and processes of unconsciousness.

SESSION 5. CONCRETIZATIONS and DREAMS
We will consider the many forms of ‘Concretizations’ of subjective emotional situations take when symbolization in language is not available.

SESSION 6. THE WORK OF THE ANALYST.
We will look at the way an intersubjective-systems analyst works with the transference, illuminating and investigating the patient’s phenomena, making interpretations, practicing sustained empathic inquiry (in contrast to Kohut’s empathy), dwelling with, and the ways of being a ‘relational home.’ We will also attend to the philosophical underpinnings that inform the analyst’s attitude.

SESSION 7. THE ANALYTIC SITUATION
We will look at the alliance, the context of the intersubjective field as expressed in the dyad’s affectivity and how it differs during different transferences (repetitive, developmental, expansive, erotic etc.), stuck times or impasses, so called negative therapeutic reactions, conjunctions and disjunctions, antidote seeking, emergent experience and issues of the analytic “frame.” The notion of difficult patients will be discussed.

SESSION 9.
Working with extreme states, the compassionate genius of George Atwood.
Reading:
Choose one of the following topics and be prepared to discuss in class:
1) Suicide:
ATWOOD LECTURE 15, Parts 1 and 2: DEPRESSION AND SUICIDALITY. Another look at Freud’s “Mourning and Melancholia,” and the contextuality of suicides – unbearable despair over an untenable situation. Suicides are “seizing power in the cavern of despair.”

Optional: Additional details of case material can be found in George Atwood’s “The Abyss of Madness,” Chapter 6: The Tragedy of Self-Destruction, and Chapter 7: The Dark Sun of Melancholia.
2) ‘Psychosis:’
Dr. Atwood recounts his first case and treatment of Jean, showing the phenomenology of “multiple personality:”
ATWOOD LECTURE 18, Parts 1 and 2: Introducing Jean and the notion of ‘alters.’
ATWOOD LECTURE 19, Parts 1 and 2: Jean’s life story and traumas, and her alters.
ATWOOD LECTURE 20, Parts 1 and 2: Journey of recovery.
ATWOOD LECTURE 21, Parts 1 and 2: Integration.

SESSION 10. OUTCOMES.
How does the patient (and analyst) change? Relief due to changes in the organization of experience, the tolerance of a greater range of affectivity, and an expansion of a sense-of-future possibilities, along with a change of attitude and understanding toward self and other, increased skills for relating, a sense-of-kinship, and less automaticity in the interpretation of experience lead to more of a sense of wholeness.

We will reflect on the ideas of intersubjective-systems theory, and take an autobiographical journey toward an understanding of how our traumas and ‘thrownness’ intersect with those of our patients.

You are asked to reflect on your emotional world, and any impasses or curtailments in relationships with others that occur inside and outside the consulting room, and be prepared to discuss.

Recommended Books:
Ideally, in order to deeply understand and integrate Intersubjective-Systems Theory into your clinical thinking you will extend the studies entailed in this course by reading, or at least having at hand for reference, the following books -- each of which constitutes a central contribution to the Intersubjective-Systems literature. Therefore, we recommend you purchase these books to compliment your psychoanalytic library. Nevertheless, all the required and recommended readings will be accessible in article or book-chapter form on the ICP website.

Course Title: Contemporary Theories – Relational Theory

Instructor: Sona DeLurgio, Psy.D., L.M.F.T.

Weeks 21-30

Course Purpose

Relational Psychoanalysis is a contemporary theory of the last 25 years. It is not a single, contained theory but a school of thought emerging from Interpersonal Psychoanalysis and Object Relations, and encompassing a wide range of contributions from psychoanalysis, feminism, infant research, attachment, philosophy, anthropology, etc.

The course will instill a strong understanding of the spirit of the Relational Tradition as it was first conceived and generated in the United States. Early influential papers that form this unique tradition as it first came together in New York City will be reviewed. This course will also include current perspectives as they continue to evolve within the Relational tradition throughout the world, and here at ICP.

Course Goals

1) To understand the history and development of Relational Psychoanalysis

2) To have a strong grasp of the basic concepts and therapeutic action in Relational Psychoanalysis and its clinical sensibilities.

3) To be well versed in the original contributors to the Relational Tradition as a foundation to appreciate current writings in contemporary psychoanalysis as it evolves.

Session 1, March 12:

Session 2, March 19:

Session 3, March 26:
Bromberg, P. (2003), One Need Not be a House to be Haunted: A Case Study, in Awakening the Dreamer, Ch 8 pp. 153-173, Analytic Press, Mahwah,NJ

Session 4, April 9 (Larry Green):

Session 5, April 16 (Larry Green):

Session 6, April 23:

Session 7, April 30 (Phil Ringstrom): optional: Additional discussions by Bruce Ries, Carolyn Clement and Lynne Jabobs, all 2010 in same issue of Psychoanalytic dialogues.

Session 8, May 7 (Leslie Maxson):

Introduction to Jessica Benjamin

Session 9, May 14 (Leslie Maxson):

Session 10, May 21 (Phil Ringstrom):

Optional for your own interest:

The following series is an interesting and thorough dialogue about the concept of Recognition as coined by Jessica Benjamin

The next 2 articles are classics by Jessica Benjamin and really outline her ideas well.

Course Title: Advanced Relational Theory
Instructor and Facilitators: Elaine Silberman, Ph.D., Psy.D., Larry Green, Psy.D., and Leslie Maxson, Ph.D., Psy.D.

Course Purpose:
The Main purpose of this class is to instill a stronger understanding of the spirit of the Relational Tradition as it was first conceived and generated in the United States. A few early influential papers from this unique Tradition as it first came together will be discussed. This course will also include more current relational articles and more current perspectives.

Course Goals:
1. To continue to understand Relational Theory’s unique characteristics and the influences of Interpersonal Psychoanalysis, Object Relational Theory, Self Psychology, Relational Intersubjectivity Theory, and Psychoanalytic Feminism.

2. To understand the relational co-constructed clinical process as including a deep consideration of the subjectivity of the analyst and also of the intersubjective third as a distinct form of intersubjectivity.

3. Learn how Relational Psychoanalysis is evolving and changing.

Session 1: September 10, 2015.
Instructor: Larry Green, Ph.D., Elaine Silberman, Ph.D., discussant.
Topic: Interpersonal Psychoanalysis’ influence on Relational Psychoanalysis

Readings:

Topic: A Critique of Relational Psychoanalysis

Readings:

Session 3: September 24, 2015

Course Title: Object Relations
Instructor: David James Fisher, Ph.D.

Course description: This fifteen week course introduces Object Relations Theory and Practice, focusing mainly on the British (Middle) Independent School. It will begin with an examination of the origins of object relations inside the classical Freudian conception. We will then read some seminal papers by Ferenczi, who will be seen as a bridge between classical psychoanalysis and the object relations school. The seminar will then turn to an intense study of Fairbairn because he was the most complete theory-builder in the development of object relations theory; we will also explore how Fairbairn’s perspective opens up ways of working with schizoid and depressed patients. We will move to a brief introduction to the theory of Klein and Bion, reading a number of seminal papers by these two major thinkers. These early object relations practitioners formally depart from the Freudian pleasure-seeking drives to a privileging of the importance of actual persons seeking connection to others. The course then moves to later theorists, including Winnicott, Balint, and Guntrip. Contemporary adherents to object relations theory, in particular Ogden, Bollas, and Phillips, will be considered. The course is designed mainly as a reading seminar; however close attention will be paid to the application of the concepts to clinical work, including candidates’ cases.

Course objectives: at the completion of the course, candidates will be able to:

1. articulate the connection and differences between classical Freudian drive theory and ego psychology and object relations theory.
2. Demonstrate competence in key concepts of object relations theory.
3. Identify key ideas from the British Independent School, including significant concepts by Fairbairn, Klein, Bion, Winnicott, Balint, and Guntrip.
4. Critically evaluate contemporary developments in object relations theory and practice.
5. Apply object relations theory to clinical work with patients.

Teaching method: Using the reading as a point of departure, I will facilitate active and engaging discussion of the material, including how ideas from object relations can be applied to the clinical process.

Evaluation: seminar attendance and class participation.

Session XIII  Guntrip on the Theory and Technical Problems of Schizoid Phenomena

Session XIV  Balint on Deficits

Session XV  Phillips on Kindness and Aggression

“Judy, you should start out by saying that this class is an experience in uncertainty.”

Basic premise (“a paragraph of goals” in 7 paragraphs):
For six years, this was a required class positioned to come at or near the end of the four year program of required and elective seminars. The elective version is identical to the original with the exception of a limit on enrollment.

This class was removed as “required” when the Curriculum Committee and the Board determined that its autobiographical framework violated boundaries established by the Code of Ethics of the American Psychological Association regarding the presentation of autobiographical material in a psychoanalytic curriculum.

In its reformulation as an elective, the class exists (and persists) to question those boundaries, and much more than that. FOOWAP is offered in the spirit of “the autobiographical dialogue,” the premise that whatever we say, do and write, and whatever our theory or practice, exist(s) mainly in the context of our personal story. Very much as it is in the clinical situation, where we analyze transference and countertransference responses, you cannot really understand what I say or write unless you know something of me, some of my autobiography (my biography as I tell it), and in the same way I cannot understand you. And, further than that, many times we do not really understand what we have said until we receive and understand one another’s response.

But, “unlike the relative safety of clinical space, conference space [which includes seminar space] can be a disaster area where too often we are re-traumatized when we meet one another defensively straining to demonstrate knowledge in the impersonal disguise of most clinical and theoretical presentations. At the same time, each clinical and theoretical development in psychoanalysis and each case presentation is about the survival of the analyst, though the detail of it is usually secret, private, unacknowledged … or unconscious. This makes it hard to know what we (readers and listeners) have heard or read, and who we are in relation to it.” (Vida, 2003, listed in recommended readings.)

Part of what determines whether conference space can become something of an analytic space is how we present our story; another part is contributed by how our story is received --- this refers to how seriously is exercised the ethical responsibility of those who listen and read. This is therefore an issue of mutuality, which has an effect on the quality and the depth of the dialogue and the possibility for (mutual) transformation within it.

For some years, Gershon J. Molad of Israel and I have been working collaboratively to explore the nature of the dialogue between analysts, and how the fate of its autobiographical essence thwarts or facilitates the analyst’s clinical, theoretical, and personal development. We (2005, listed in recommended readings) distinguish two basic modes of learning: one is identification, with emphasis on “a cognitive and intellectual patterning after a received tradition, personal, theoretical, and technical”; the other is introjection, an altogether different mode of learning. If identification is about taking in what already exists, introjection has to do with “the absent, the absorbed, the disquieting new experience that we can’t know how or if it will come out and how we will be affected by it, until it happens.” With identification, the impetus for change is the aspiration to become or to emulate another; for introjection, “the agent of transformation is desire, especially thwarted, unmet desire.” As Nicholas Abraham and Maria Torok wrote, “Learning to fill the emptiness of the mouth with words is the initial model for introjection.”

In a way, this seminar can be seen as a prototypical laboratory, a laboratory for uncertainty. I would say that all our experiences and individual encounters exist in a personal “laboratory” in which we test (or do not test) empirical outcomes of our personal hypotheses (sometimes referred to as “organizing principles” but more than that). Hence we (and our dialogue) are all always “research subjects” in one another’s personal laboratories. What is done with the data is partially private but also, at the same time, points to the importance of developing an ethics of relatedness. I will address the issue of ethics shortly.

Objectives:
1. To distinguish “the autobiographical dialogue” from the standard notion of “self disclosure.”
2. To establish the legitimate (and essential) place of the “how” as well as the “what” in clinical discourse (both dialogue and writing).
3. To facilitate awareness of “the missing” when clinical discourse disregards or refuses recognition of the autobiographical.

Background and clinical relevance:

Jean-Jacques Rousseau in his Confessions, completed in 1770, offers one of the earliest explorations (after St. Augustine and some others) of the autobiographical in print. Rousseau’s great subject was the (troubled) relation of appearance to reality, the tension between the public and the private, the demonstration of the connection between feelings and philosophic thought.

“Rousseau focuses on the personal and the intimate, but in doing so he claims to gain access to general truths of ultimate significance. Early in the book he uses his very idiosyncratic responses to spankings to raise questions about the origins of sexuality and feelings about justice and injustice. He uses the fact of his father’s failure to pursue him beyond Annecy when he ran away from Geneva to reflect on the fundamental maxim of natural goodness. Conversely he reveals apparently general discussions about the moral character of the theatre to be guided by personal desires to curry favor with the powerful and then shows that petty personal rivalries are connected with competing views about the proper place of an intellectual in society. In the Confessions every general issue is connected with a personal problem and every personal problem illustrates a general issue.”

This is, of course, the premise of FOOWAP: to establish formally the legitimate participation of the link between “the personal problem” and “the general issue.” This participation is what Gersh Molad and I call “the autobiographical dialogue,” the area in which transference and countertransference are indistinguishably mingled, which has been the missing piece of traditional psychoanalytic training and official discourse (although this may be changing now). In its focus on “the missing,” this seminar thus follows an introjective rather than identificatory model. It is Gersh Molad’s and my sense that the “autobiographical dialogue,” added to the personal analysis, the supervised analyses and the seminars, constitutes a “fourth part” of the tri-partite system of psychoanalytic training --- it is the developmental part, and it has its own story. It is in the autobiographical dialogue that is born “one’s own way” as a psychoanalyst, being able to hear one’s own voice as a clinician, as a reader, as a writer, and as a person in ongoing confluent development. Thus the stance of the American Psychological Association about autobiographical material, in the guise of “ethics,” negates what for the two of us is the basic premise of psychoanalysis. You may agree, and you may not.

In terms of understanding one’s own voice, we see that the way we present our work to others is a two-way process: from one side, we deal with the difficulties we have in expressing ourselves as we bring the clinical experience to seminars, conferences, and consultations; and from the other, we look at how our expectations of being listened to and understood (or misunderstood) influences our inner analytic voice in working with someone.

Any relation, any encounter, any psychoanalytic seminar has its own overlay and underpinning of the personal, and that’s where the seminar will begin, to look at and to explore with one another the development of “the voice of the analyst” --- your voice, my voice. As we go, we will work to create an atmosphere safe enough for such a dialogue to emerge. “Safe enough” does not mean only nice and comfortable, although it can be that. It also means finding a way to include “the difficult,” the inevitable difficulties that arise along the way, and making use of them to expand both our self-understanding and our appreciation of the individuality of one another. “Safe enough” also means that how we listen to one another, how we listen and hold and work with one another, is as important as what we present. The outcome of this seminar is thus a shared responsibility; this is the active practice of ethics in the autobiographical dialogue between analysts. This is “pluralism” in action, not merely a philosophical premise, or idea, or ideology. What may become obvious (if it is not already) is that this can be difficult; a certain amount of anxiety (yours, and also mine) may be generated by even starting to touch it. It is also (apparently) a different reading of “ethics” than that of the American Psychological Association.

Of course, within the notion of an “ethics” of relating, there must be some consideration for confidentiality, which is an issue of what use we will make of our contact with one another.

Seminar Plan
This is a seminar for introspection, for writing, and for relating, in the sense of both telling our story and responding to the stories of others. Relating to one another is our primary ethical responsibility, and constitutes our discussion. Your presence is essential.

2. Also, before the seminar begins, I invite each class member to write a brief autobiographical account of your involvement with psychoanalysis and particularly the personal development of your voice, in two parts, the “what” and the “how.” (Depending on your degree of comfort, these will be read by the whole class, and/or related by you to us.)

   The first part (the “what”) is “the story.” One approach could be to look at the influence on you of your training model (as patient, therapist, supervisee and student; when these experiences are positive, the mode of learning tends toward the identificatory; when disappointing, it is more introjective); another could be your situation in the cultural and social milieu, and how you observe that you talk to one another. (In previous years of this seminar, class members were asked to select a most-loved and most-hated article and to write something about the autobiographical origins of that love and hate, as a way-in to exploring the “dialogical autobiography.” It was useful for some and not for others, so it has been dropped as a requirement, but it can be a way to begin your thinking.)

   The second part (the “how”) is an observation of yourself thinking about and writing the first part, thus creating an “in vivo” vignette.

But please note: there is no “right way” or “wrong way” to respond to this assignment; there is only “your” way --- whatever that is --- and that’s what we aim to explore and recognize. It is the “how” of “your way” that matters.

   “No right way or wrong way” also means that no individual evaluations will be given. “Satisfactory” completion means meeting the attendance requirements. The objective of the class is not “knowledge” but “experience,” and no one but you can be the judge of your experience. You will be present in your own way, and you will use (or not use) your own voice entirely as you wish. Your observations (shared or not) of yourself during this process constitute the essence of the seminar. In previous iterations of this class, I have written a general comment on the class process that served as each class member’s evaluation; one year, during the last session I asked everyone to write a sentence describing their experience; these sentences were then collected and became the general evaluation. (Of course, this does not replace your personal evaluation of the class which you prepare separately and privately.)

3. At each session, one (or more) of you will be asked to relate what you have or have not written, from which our conversation will develop --- and what that means is to relate rather than to read. In other words, I’d like you to tell us what it was like to write what and as you did. Figure about 15 or so minutes for the initial presentation. All along we will have an open discussion of where we have been, using our shared experience as “content.” In addition, as a formal opportunity for feedback, after each of you has “presented,” I would like you, if possible, to write just a few lines or a paragraph describing the experience; during the following week, we will hear these responses related as well. Everyone’s participation is vital to this process, which builds as we go, so your regular attendance is crucial to the success of the class. If we have heard from everyone by the end of the next-to-last session, the last session can be reserved for the remaining post-presentation responses, and a general discussion.

Please note: “participation” refers to being present in an active way; “silent” or “listening” need not be construed as “absent” or “withholding”.

Seminar Schedule:

The actual enrollment will determine our flexibility in terms of scheduling. One of you might volunteer to present something at the first session, but it might be better to meet and talk, and see how you want to arrange yourselves, as an “order of march,” or, if you are comfortable enough, we can “wing it” and listen to whomever is moved to come forth each time.

Week One. Orientation: introducing “the autobiographical dialogue” and ourselves. Papers by Molad, Molad & Vida, and Vida may (or may not) be referred to.
Questions about the seminar. Possibly one presentation.

Week Two. Response from last week’s presenter. One or more presentations.
Week Three. Responses from last week. One or more new ones.
Week Four. Responses from last week. One or more new ones.
Week Five. Responses from last week. One or more new ones.
Week Six. Responses from last week. One or more new ones.
Week Seven. Responses from last week. Any remaining presentation.
Review of the seminar experience.

Course Title: Case Conference on Trauma and Dissociation
Instructor: Carol Mayhew, Ph.D., Psy.D.

and dissociation as they unfold in the clinical hour. Participants will increase their understanding of the emotional meanings associated with traumatic experience and be able to identify the presence of these meanings in transference and countertransference configurations.
A wide range of dissociative phenomena will be addressed, providing opportunities to recognize dissociative experiences and extend knowledge of treatment considerations in connection with dissociative states. Readings are drawn from a range of theoretical formulations, allowing comparison and contrast of perspectives on these very important topics.

SYLLABUS
Each class meeting will involve presentation of case material and a discussion of the assigned reading(s).

Session 6.

Session 7.

ITEM 1

Objectives:

1. Participants will be able to list and describe at least three ways a patient’s traumatic experiences affect his or her experiences of self and relationships with others.

2. Participants will be able to identify at least three basic elements of trauma treatment.

3. Participants will be able to identify different manifestations of dissociation and describe ways to treat dissociation.

ITEM 2

The content of this course includes contributions from an extensive range of authors, all of whom are distinguished in the fields of trauma and dissociation. Their writings draw upon a wide range of empirical research on the effects of trauma, links between trauma and dissociation, trauma and memory, and neurobiological findings connected to trauma and dissociation. The different authors represent a range of theoretical perspectives as well, allowing students the opportunity to compare and contrast an array of ideas about treatment.

ITEM 3

While some of the information in the course is based on empirical research, other information is drawn from clinical case experience and is illustrated with single case reports. Thus, the applicability of many of the treatment ideas studied in this class must be decided on a case by case basis using clinical judgment. While this course is designed to improve and refine clinical judgment in dealing with cases involving trauma and dissociation, the applicability of any given treatment ideas to any given case must be assessed by the treating clinician.

ITEM 4

A history of trauma is extremely prevalent in clinical populations. In addition, dissociation in one form or another frequently manifests in clients who have been traumatized. Untreated trauma and untreated dissociation have been linked to an extensive range of social problems, including criminal behavior, addictions, eating disorders, work difficulties, relationship problems, and physical symptoms. Hence, improved treatment of trauma-related disorders and dissociative symptoms is of great benefit to society.

Course Title: A Critical Historical Overview
Instructor: Carola Kaplan, Ph.D., Psy.D.

All the Freud readings can be downloaded from the PEP Web under “Books.” These readings are from James Strachey’s translation of the The Standard Edition of the Complete Psychological works of Sigmund Freud (referred to as S.E. in the syllabus). The remainder of the readings are also available either on PEP Web, including The Complete Letters of Sigmund Freud to Wilhelm Fliess 1887-1904, edited by Jeffrey Masson (1986), or posted on the ICP Website. The only exception is the Breger biography of Freud, which can be found at Amazon.com. You are expected to have read the assigned readings before class, so that you can participate meaningfully in class discussion.

Course Title: Final Integrative Class – Theory of Everything
Instructor: Katherine Schwarzenbach, Ph.D.

Excellent supervisors in the course of my training have been of immeasurable help to me, clinically, theoretically, and above all, personally. In this class, I will bring in several articles or chapters from books written by these supervisors. I am also including several pieces that have been inviting of the self-reflection needed to extricate myself from a quandary. What I am suggesting is - - to whom do we turn in a time of clinical crisis? Who is most helpful, when we don’t quite know what to do in working with a difficult patient or reaching an impasse or participating in an enactment, and no analyst, supervisor, consultant, or colleague is there to assist? We have a shelf full of books and articles, but whose words offer comfort, expertise, or whatever help we can rely on?

A member of the class will be assigned to each session, and I would like each of you to bring in whatever it is that has brought you through clinical struggles, your work at the Institute, or any personal situation. Breaking out of the box a bit, I suggest we can resort to anything - - a poem, a piece of music, book(s), whatever buoys us up when we need unusual support. I am arbitrarily putting candidates’ names by class dates, but these can be moved around.

The pairing of candidates with their readings with my selections is not meant to constrain the class in any way; rather, I hope that, as we look back together over the four years of candidacy, we can reflect on the various ways we have been affected by our experiences and share these reflections with each other. I am asking each member of the class to select something to bring to the class to which he/she is assigned. I very much look forward to meeting with all of you and having this time together. Truly, I feel privileged to be able to participate in this last class of your ICP training.

Session 2: Focus on the Body and Self Destructive Behaviors

Session 3: Contemporary Perspectives on Defenses and How to Work with Them
Course Title: Substance Use and Misuse: Contemporary Perspectives
Instructor: D. Bradley Jones, Psy.D., LCSW

Traditional psychoanalytic theorizing and discourse has had a long history of bifurcated thinking around substance use and misuse. Just as the narcissistic was deemed un-analyzable for many years, the substance user was also excluded from traditional psychoanalytic treatment until they were able to manage sobriety. Traditional addiction treatment and the tenants of Alcoholics Anonymous are equally burdened with problematic assumptions about the character of the substance user, and traditional addiction treatments propound inarguable ideas about what will help people shift from addictive action. When these programs work, they offer great benefit to our patients. When they do not work, what can the psychoanalyst keep in mind to help motivate their patients to stay engaged in psychoanalytically informed treatment rather than succumbing to a therapeutic stance that implicitly blames the patient because he will not stop using? How do we help the patient to start thinking about his substance use without requiring him stop?

Class Purpose: The aim of the class is to stimulate a cross disciplinary discussion on the subject of the psychoanalytic treatment of substance use and misuse. We will first explore contemporary psychoanalytic contributions that elucidate the multiple meanings and functions substance use serves for individual patients. We will then briefly look at the pros and cons of AA, and discuss the impact of the “disease” concept and 12-Step groups on psychoanalytic treatment. In our final segment, we will be introduces to principles found in harm reduction psychotherapy--a philosophy that exemplifies an important clinical sensibility and skill that can assist the clinician to reach a broader spectrum of patients who remain on a continuum of substance use.

Class goals:
1) To identify and understand 3 different elements often found in the etiology of substance misuse.
2) To indentify some of the many different functions substance use serves patients.
3) To develop a grasp of the philosophy of AA, and to understand how it can enhance psychoanalytic treatment.
4) To be able to indentify and understand why some patients have aversive reactions to AA.
5) To identify basic principles of Harm Reduction Psychotherapy, and to understand its efficacy in psychoanalytic treatment.

1st Class
Our 1st class will explore the contemporary psychoanalytic contributions to expand our understanding the multiple meanings of substance misuse.

How do these contemporary perspectives help in deepening your understanding of substance use and misuse?

2nd Class

The second class will tie up loose ends around our conversation of psychoanalytic perspectives of substance use. We will then discuss the pros and cons of both the disease model and 12-Step and how they impact psychoanalytic treatment with substance users.

How does AA enhance and/or conflict with your clinical work?

Haaken, J. (1992), Beyond addiction: recovery groups and ‘women who love too much.’ Free associations, 3:85-109

3rd Class

The 3rd class will introduce principles of Harm Reduction Psychotherapy. Harm Reduction, a substance use treatment that does not require abstinence as a requirement for treatment, possesses a unique sensibility that allows a clinician to provide therapy to a wider field of patients.

How do these papers coincide or collide with the way you currently work with addictions?

Course Title: How Culture And Social Location Affect Clinical Attitude: A Study In Black And White Instructors: Veronica Abney, Ph.D. & Lynne Jacobs, Ph.D.

We are pleased to have the chance to explore this theme together with you. We shall all be explorers together. None of us are experts in this area, and yet you will find that all of us have something to contribute to our explorations.

As psychoanalysts, we are familiar with looking at families as a context that shapes the subjectivity of our patients and ourselves. There are broader contexts as well, such as cultural practices, social history, and one’s “place,” or situatedness in relation to the society in which one lives.

There is a paucity of psychoanalytic literature that addresses these issues and how they affect the consulting room. Most of the literature is offered by analysts who identify as “marginalized” in relation to the dominant culture. Some literature written by cultural insiders tend to aim at helping us to understand “others.”

While we will use some of this literature in class, our main aim is to broaden our self-awareness. That is, we hope to increase our awareness of the limits to our understanding that arise from our horizontal limits. This requires, first, becoming more aware of those horizons.

We also hope to increase our awareness of the multiplicity of our own context-dependent identification process. In some contexts, for instance, our gender renders us as “other.” In another context our color may render us as “dominant.” By and large, when we are placed in a dominant position, we suffer the most severe limits on awareness of the clinical (and social) implications of our place. We have blind spots. We will explore the “blindspot” syndrome that accompanies such situatedness, and explore ways together to try to reduce the tendency towards blind spots.

Our primary paradigm for exploring how socio-cultural horizons shape our clinical attitude will be a study of the meaning of “whiteness” in a racialized society. We are pleased to have the chance to explore this theme together with you. We shall all be explorers together. None of us are experts in this area, and yet you will find that all of us have something to contribute to our explorations.

While we include readings in our syllabus, we will also be conducting experiential exercises that allow an exploration that facilitates learning through phenomenological exploration.

Readings
Here are some of the readings we will use:

Course Title: Couples Therapy
Instructors: Joan Dasteel, Ph.D. & Philip Ringstrom, Ph.D., Psy.D.

COURSE OVERVIEW: This course will focus on a relational psychoanalytic model of conjoint psychotherapy along with the influence of improvisational theory in both individual and couple’s treatment. Of the six sessions, the first four will be dedicated to the study of the manuscript of my forthcoming book on a Relational Model of Conjoint Psychotherapy. The last two sessions will focus on the adoption of an improvisatory stance in all modes of psychoanalytic treatment. Since ideas from improvisation are also included in the conjoint treatment manuscript, the dual foci will blend seamlessly into one another. Meanwhile, all theoretical material will be fleshed out through case material presented by the candidates.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The first four sessions of this course will study the instructor’s six-step model for practicing a relational approach to conjoint therapy, which is organized around three themes: self-actualization in an intimate relationship, mutual recognition and the “relationship having a mind of its own.” A brief historical context for the model’s creation will be shared along with the salient concepts underpinning it. Each step will be illustrated with case material including case consultations with class participants.

The final two sessions will be devoted to the study of an improvisatory mode of engagement in psychoanalytic treatment embodied in a) an improvisatory “stance” (attitude), b) an improvisatory “process” in contrast to constrained versions of play such as “mutual inductive identification” and c) “turning point” moments in the treatment understood as “I”mprovisational moments in the treatment. The first class on improvisation will be linked to an ICP conference on that day March 24th, 2012 titled “A Serious Look at Play” featuring Darlene Ehrenberg and Phil Ringstrom and yet to be specified discussants.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

Re: Conjoint Psychotherapy
1) To learn about how the three organizing themes: self-actualization in an intimate relationship, mutual recognition, and the “relationship having a mind of its own” bridge important elements of contemporary psychoanalysis, namely self-experiencing in a complex nonlinear system lending to the principle of “thirdness” in long-term intimate relationships – marital and otherwise.
2) To learn how these three themes are practiced in terms of the model’s six steps.
3) To investigate modifications in psychoanalytic technique in conjoint therapy in light of this perspective shift.
4) To discern both the advantages and limitations that may arise from this perspective.

Re: An Improvisational Mode of Treatment
1) To learn what is meant by assuming an Improvisational stance, that is assuming and practicing a treatment attitude infused with playfulness and possibility.

2) To learn how to engage in an improvisational mode of treatment.

3) To learn what is involved in enactments and episodes of “mutual inductive identification.”

4) To learn how “I”mprovisational moments arise from working through the elements listed in #3.

SESSIONS SYLLABUS

September 26, 2015
This session will focus an overall theoretical view of the conjoint therapy model. The bibliography for this session will include an “in press” article in an upcoming edition of IJPSP, which provides an updated overview of the model since its original publication in 1994. This session will also cover the first three chapters of the manuscript, including the Prologue, the Introductory chapter and the Theoretical Overview. (All of this course material will be distributed by the instructor directly to the candidates).

October 24, 2015
This session will focus on the first three steps of the conjoint treatment model with Step One focusing primarily on attunement to the couple’s partner’s bi-dimensional transferences as well as vicious circles of engagement between these transference dimensions. Step Two emphasizes the development of “perspectival realism” a lynchpin concept to this model of treatment. And Step Three involves how to gather and how to utilize background data germane to the couple’s relational styles, i.e., what each brings to their relationship including multi-generational transmission processes, the influence of such elements as cultural attitudes (collectivist versus individualism), racial, gender, and finally immigration issues. These first three steps are embodied respectively in Chapters 4, 5 and 6. (All of this manuscript material will be distributed by the instructor directly to the candidates).

December 5, 2015:
This session will focus on the last three steps of the conjoint treatment model. Step Four involves enactments and their resolution. Step Five focuses on the enrichment of each partner’s self-actualization through an increased capacity to self-reflect. Step Six involves each partner’s increased capacity to attune to and support each other’s self-actualization. Steps Five and Six converge under the axiom that It is impossible to negotiate between two people, that which has not been negotiated within each one. These three steps are embodied respectively in Chapters 7, 8 and 9. (All of this manuscript material will be distributed by the instructor directly to the candidates).

January 29, 2016:
This session will focus on the last two chapters of the book. One chapter is devoted to taking a single case illustration through all six steps of the model. The last chapter is titled “FAQ’s” or “frequently asked questions” that have arisen from years of presenting this model in class, workshops, and conferences. These last two chapters are chapters 10 and 11. (All of this manuscript material will be distributed by the instructor directly to the candidates).

March 26, 2016:
The final session of this class will summarize all of the elements of this weekend course as well as cover the most recent updates in thinking regarding an improvisatory mode of treatment in psychoanalytic practice. The bibliography will include the instructor’s chapters from Aron and Harris’ Relational Psychoanalysis, Volume Five, 2011 entitled “Principles of Improvisation in Relational Psychoanalysis” and “Afterword” as well as more recent articles “in press.” (All of this manuscript material will be distributed by the instructor directly to the candidates).

May 7, 2016:

To be announced on basis of more up to date papers and publications.

Course Title: Final Integrative Class: Becoming Our Psychoanalytic Selves
Instructor: Gil Spielberg, Ph.D., ABPP

This course was designed as an opportunity for students, nearing the end of their formal training, to integrate the various models and theories they have come across during their time at ICP.

I was asked to facilitate this course not because I possess a deep expertise in all of the theories that we will be exploring, but rather, because it was imagined that my background in group leadership would be helpful in facilitating an environment where students could engage emotionally as well as intellectually in stimulating dialogue. Therefore, a central focus of the course experience will be the conversations among the class members. We will attempt to use these conversations as a reflection of the theory under study, and, most importantly, to assist each student in understanding their current thinking about themselves in relation to theory.

In preparation for each session, students are asked to read an article(s) that has been suggested by experts on our faculty to represent the central and most recent ideas of a particular point of view. Please have 2 questions in mind from your readings that can be discussed in class.

Frequently students, find individual patients coming to mind during the course of their readings. These associations often provide a wonderful departure point for discussion. In the past, students have also mentioned that keeping a few notes or a personal “reaction journal” to each article has been useful. Our attempt will be to study just one point of view each session, although this will not always be possible.

There are three written tasks that students are expected to accomplish in this course. First, each student is expected to keep a continuously updated personal definition of psychoanalysis. Second, students are to write (no longer than 3 pages) their own psychoanalytic journey as represented by the Mitchell article. Lastly, I ask each student to keep write a personal note (perhaps a paragraph or two) on what was important to them in the class discussion. All three assignments will be discussed during the first class session.

The design of this course has some flexibility. As ideas are stimulated we can try to incorporate whatever comes along.

Class #1 Saturday September 26, 2014, A Perspective on the Course. Rather than focus on a particular analytic point of view, this initial session will provide an orientation to how we might approach theory and our personal reactions to the forthcoming material.

On Choosing a Guiding Theory For Treatment in a Pluralistic Psychoanalytic World: My Personal Journey, Ornstein, P.

Class # 2 Saturday, Nov. 1, 2014, Self-Psychology as suggested by Dr. Carol Mayhew and Relational Theory as suggested by Dr. Phil Ringstrom

Ringstrom, P. “Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Relational Practice But Were Too Confused To Ask”, unpublished manuscript. 2014.

Class # 3 Saturday, Dec. 5, 2014, Human Development from a Dynamic Systems Perspective, as suggested by Dr. Estelle Shane.

Class # 4 Saturday, Jan. 24, 2015 Intersubjectivity, as suggested by Dr. Robert Stolorow.

Class # 5 Saturday, March 28, 2015, Complexity Theory as suggested by Dr. Bill Coburn Class # 6 Saturday, May 2, 2015, Specificity Theory as suggested by Dr. Howard Bacal.

Course Title: Fairbairn and Guntrip
Instructor: Lynne Jacobs, Ph.D.

To the students: some of the articles will be repetitious, so you will be able to skim certain paragraphs. Please come to class prepared with questions, arguments and your own clinical and theoretical associations.

All of the Fairbairn’s articles except one will be found in the manuscript, Psychoanalytic Studies of the Personality, which is in PEP. (Fairbairn, W.D. (1952). Psychoanalytic Studies of the Personality. London: Tavistock Publications Limited.)

Some of Guntrip’s articles are included as PDF’s as they are not available in PEP. In that case, they are taken from his opus, Schizoid Phenomena, Object Relations and the Self (1969). IUP, NY.

Unless otherwise indicated, the articles for the course can be found on PEP.

Week 1 Fairbairn’s theory development)

Chapter II: A Revised Psychopathology of the Psychoses and Psychoneuroses (1941)

Chapter IV: Endopsychic Structure Considered in Terms of Object-Relationships (1944)

Chapter V: Object-Relationships and Dynamic Structure1 (1946)

Week 2 more Fairbairn

Chapter VI: Steps in the Development of an Object-Relations Theory of the Personality (1949)

Week 3

Chapter III: The Repression and the Return of Bad Objects (with special reference to the ‘War Neuroses’) (1943)

Guntrip, chapter 12, Object-relations theory and psychotherapy (Fairbairn’s unfinished work)

Week 4 Guntrip’s theory and therapy
Guntrip, chapter 2, The Schizoid Problem, Regression, and the Struggle to Preserve and Ego. Guntrip, chapter 3, The regressed ego, the lost heart of the self, and the inability to love.

Week 4 more Guntrip

Guntrip, chapter 6, Ego-weakness, the core of the problem of psychotherapy. Guntrip, chapter 11, the schizoid compromise and psychotherapeutic stalemate

Guntrip, chapter 13, Object-relations theory and psychotherapy: the therapeutic relationship

Week 5 Tales of treatment

Week 6 Wrapping it up

A discussion of implications for your work as analysts.

Course Title: Sexuality
Instructors: Celeste Birkhofer, Ph.D. & Ginna Clark, M.A.

We’d like to suggest that you spend some time with two important primary sources before the academic year begins. These texts will be foundational and should help you orient to the material written by more contemporary authors. Summer Reading:

Please prepare a few comments or questions to contribute to class discussion for each of the following assigned weekly articles.
Weekend 1: Overview & History

Optional:

Weekend 2: Constructing Sexuality & Sexual States

Optional:

Weekend 3: Constructing Sexuality & Interpreting Oedipus

Optional:

Weekend 4: Rethinking Perversion

Saketopolou, A. (2014). To suffer pleasure: The shattering of the ego as the psychic labor of perverse sexuality.

Weekend 5: Sexual Transference & Countertransference

Celenza, A. (2010). The guilty pleasure of erotic countertransference: Searching for radial

Optional:

Weekend 6: Contemporary Sexual Issues in Psychoanalysis

Transgender

Pornography

Desire

Sexual Consent

PH.D. PROGRAM

Course Title: Research Methods
Instructors: Michael Lebow, Ph.D. & Ilene Philipson, Ph.D., Psy.D.

Readings:

Harwell, Michelle (2015). Working Through the Unconscious Assumptions of Neglect (It will appear in the next Psychoanalytic Inquiry; I will have it to you by class time).

Polio An American Story by David Oshinsky (Pulitzer Prize);

In Human Bondage by David Davis (Absolutely definitivescholarship)

Seminar Times:

September 25 Positivism and the Scientific Method; Causation, Evidence; Social Facts: The Nature of the Surround

October 23 Sampling, Survey, Validity and Reliability; Replication: Can you do that Again? The Amgen Studies

December 4 Quantification; Probability; Ethics in Research; Tools and Measurement. A Study in Unconscious Bias

January 29 Qualitative research; Hermeneutics and textual analysis; Rules of the game. Truth as Agreement.

March 25 Integration: Developmental and Neurological Research: Michelle Harwell, Allan Schore and Beatrice Beebe

May 6 Meta-Studies; Longitudinal Studies; Time as the unidentified in Kant: Piaget’ Corrections.

Note on the Reading: If you are interested in scholarship read David Davis; read Oshinsky if you have had little exposure to science and the culture of science. The seminar will be lecture with all the time you want for discussion.

Course Title: Dissertation Writing
Instructors: Estelle Shane, Ph.D. & Joye Weisel-Barth, Ph.D., Psy.D.

We welcome you to the Ph.D. Writing Course. We plan to conduct this course in workshop format. This means that after our first meeting, where all of you will be presenting your work, in each subsequent class only a few of you will be presenting your assignment, which will include some writing samples. The remaining class members, as well as the instructors, will serve as editors and will come prepared to consult on each presentation. We envision each dissertation project generated in the class as potentially a joint creation of the first author and his/her editing consultants.
For our first meeting in September, you are all asked to complete three tasks:

1) Carefully read the Requirements for the Dissertation. An important aspect of the class is the achievement of a thorough understanding of the elements of this document. Individual classes will be focused on particular dissertation elements, so that by the end of the class, what is required to complete the dissertation will not only have been reviewed in class, but approached in writing by each class member.

2) Read Structure and Spontaneity in Clinical Prose by Suzi Naiburg over the next two months. Concentrate particularly on Chapter 11 (Introductions), Chapter 12 (The Narrative Axis), Chapter 13 (The Conceptual Axis), Chapter 14 (The Shapes of Arguments), and Chapter 15 (Using Sources). You may order the book online through Amazon or Routledge Press.

3) Prepare an ABSTRACT for the first class to present and discuss with us and the other candidates. The abstract is a condensation of what your paper is about and what it accomplishes. It is an opportunity to prepare your readers for the arguments, methods, and conclusions in your paper. Of course, over time your abstract will change - probably dramatically - but this exercise will focus your ideas in a preliminary way, offering each candidate a chance for early feedback, and guide the subsequent reading on your topic.

Course Title: Philosophy of Science

Instructor: Michael Lebow, Ph.D.

Main text: Kuhn, Thomas. The Structure of Scientific Revolutions. Chicago: University of Chicago, 3rd Ed. 1996.

Selected Readings from the following:

Kuhn’s book is widely considered one of the most important books of the 20th century, along with Godamer’s Truth and Method. It is widely known that Kuhn’s book is filled with errors, which he acknowledged. Even the latter fact did diminish the power and the implications of his insights. An old adage in art applies here: there are always errors and mistakes in any great work.

September 28, 2014 The Classical Period: Plato, Aristotle; Dialogue, Causation, Explanation, Observation, Methodology. Read: Kuhn, 1-76. (Discussion of additional reading in class). Godamer’s work on early developments in philosophy will help you with “Truth and Method.”

November 2, 2014 The Medieval Period/Renaissance/Descartes. Read Kuhn, 76-159. Ayer, 46-47; 142-143 Selections from Descartes presented in class.

January 25, 2015 Kant: Lecture followed by discussion. (Handout for Godamer for following meeting, readings for Godamer given in class). Introduction to Logical Empiricism/Logical Positivism. Ayer, 71-86.

March 29, 2015 Godamer, Hans. Truth and Method Lecture/Discussion (Handout for final class meeting/lecture and discussion).

May 3, 2015 Psychoanalysis and Principle of Verification; Truth in Psychoanalysis; Limitation of Science/Achievements in Science. Achievements in Psychoanalysis; Qualitative vs. Quantitative research/outcomes studies.

Main, M., Hesse, E., Kaplan, N. Predictability of Attachment Behavior and Representational Processes at 1, 6, and 19 Years of Age
The class will be on Bowlby, Ainsworth, Main and Hesse, Steele and Steele, and Fonagy.

This paper is meant to give each class member a sense of the depth and range of attachment theory: its origins and the meaning of its origins to psychoanalysis as well as its clinical/academic evolution in America. The instructors contribution will be to help unpack the salient features of this article for clinical use as well as include a look at the most current influence of attachment theory at the Anna Freud Center in London.

Dr’s Lundquist and Magaz were trained at The Institute For Contemporary Psychoanalysis Los Angeles, The Berkeley Institute for the Adult Attachment Interview, The New School Attachment Center in NYC, Harvard medical School/The Brazelton Institute and The Anna Freud Center. They are certified as researcher’s for the Reflective Function Scales with The Adult Attachment Interview (New School Attachment Center NYC) as well as certified practitioners of Mentalization Based Treatment (Anna Freud Center London).

We look forward to meeting all of you!

Session 20 June 20, 2015
Instructor: Laura Sanderson, Psy.D., M.F.T.

Preston, L. Therapeutic Action In An Age of Complexity
I’d like to give the class a small assignment:

1) Think of a psychoanalytic idea or concept that enlivens you; that you have fallen in love with.

2) Name the idea/concept in its proper term, then name the idea/concept in Your own words, using your own language.

3) What does the idea do for you? How does it effect or impact your therapeutic work?
Session 1: September 6, 2014  The Longitudinal Studies
Instructor: Sue Mendenhall Psy.D., M.S.W.

Table 4.1, “Salient Issues in Development,” p.66.

Questions:
1. What is the pathways model of the development of pathology?

2. Describe two connections between adult attachment style and adult relationships.

3. What parenting qualities are associated with disorganized attachment?

Session 2: September 20, 2014  Attachment/ Arietta Slade and Karlin Lyons-Ruth Instructor: Estelle Shane Ph.D.

We are going to be discussing articles written by two very important contributors to the literature on Attachment Theory

(2006) Karlen Lyons-Ruth’s The Interface Between Attachment and Intersubjectivity, published in Psychoanalytic Inquiry

(2013) Arietta Slade’s The Origins of Connectedness: A Look at Attachment, Fear, and Safety, to be presented at the 2013 Conference on the Psychology of the Self

I know it is helpful to have in mind a few questions as you read, so please consider the following:

1. How does Lyons-Ruth distinguish the principal mode of attachment of the human infant from that of other primates?

2. What evolutionary advantage does that confer on the human being?

3. What are the clinical implications that may be drawn from her work with children and mothers?

4. What novel focus does Slade take on attachment theory? How does she distinguish her vision of attachment theory from other models?

5. Explain what Slade calls the core principle of attachment theory?

6. What are the clinical implications that can be drawn from her particular understanding of attachment theory?

We can talk about these and any other comments or questions you may have when we meet.

I’m looking forward to meeting with you!

Estelle Shane

Atwood, G. The Abyss of Madness – Chapter 6 and 7 The Tragedy of Self-Destruction

This is a class about suicide. We will carefully take this subject on, together and attempt to make sense of this human circumstances through the lens of Dr. Atwood’s chapters on this subject. We will be discussing, in detail, the emotional side for the therapist and clinical examples taken up in the book. Chapter 6 begins with the question; why do people do this? So let’s begin in the same way.

1) Why do people do this?

2) In the case of David, how was suicide averted?

3) Why do people cut themselves?

4) What is the dominate affect for suicide?
5) What is the basic differences between mourning and depression?

6) Describe Freud’s take on the identification process in mourning?

Session 7: December 13, 2014    Relational Theory- Stephen Mitchell
Instructor: Edith (Edie) G. Boxer, Psy.D., M.S.W.
I will make a presentation at the beginning of the class to reintroduce us to Stephen Mitchell and his and Jay Greenberg’s 1983 development of relational psychoanalysis. We will also discuss Mitchell’s “The Wings of Icarus” about which his close friend and colleague, Lew Aron, wrote: The 1986 article “established certain key conceptual strategies that would come to characterize much of the rest of his work.” We will hopefully include clinical examples from the students and myself.

PLEASE CHECK BACK TO THIS SITE FOR FURTHER INFORMATION ABOUT ONE WEEK BEFORE THE CLASS.

I look forward to meeting each of you on 12/13/14 and to being together with Mitchell’s creativity both clinically and theoretically.

Edie Boxer, MSW, BCD, PSY.D @ edieboxer@earthlink.net or 310-453-5202 should you wish to contact me before or after the presentation.

Dear San Diego Students, Mary and Marian,

I will make a presentation at the beginning of the class to introduce Stephen Mitchell. We will read and discuss Varieties of Interaction, the chapter from his book Influence and Autonomy.

Mitchell, S. – Ch.5, Influence and Autonomy in Psychoa.
In a May 2014 Colloquium Series offered by IARRP (The International Association for Relational Psychoanalysis and Psychotherapy), the colloquium editors Steven Knoblauch and Alejandro Avila Espada, wrote that “Varieties of Interaction (1997),” coming some 14 years later {than Mitchell and Jay Greenberg’s initial collaborative classic Object Relations in Psychoanalysis Theory} offers us a clear and useful representation of Mitchell at his best with this kind of thinking. He writes: “Current psychoanalytic candidates, struggling to develop their own ways of working are faced with an array of charismatic models of distinctive analytic styles honed by master clinicians, but without a framework for determining what they have to do with each other or a methodology for developing their own personal approaches.”

I will include in our discussion an illustrative overview of comments included in the Colloquium and then I am requesting that all attendees on 2/28/14 be prepared to share clinical examples that demonstrate your struggles to develop your own style. I will also include my own struggles based on clinical material and my written essay.

I look forward to our meeting at the end of February. Should you have any questions before our class, please feel free to contact me using either my email: edieboxer@earthlink.net or my voice mail: 310-453-5202, Working with the Long-term Consequences of Neglect: Using the Neurorelational Framework (NRF) for Assessment and Treatment.

This workshop will address the three long-term consequences of neglect that affect later developmental issues, creating a situation for teens and adults where their chronological age does not match their developmental age. Using the three clinical steps of the NRF, a video-base case of a current teenager with severe early neglect from institutional care will be used to highlight the complexity of working with the 1) developmental age of the child versus the chronological age of the child/adult, 2) the need to match treatment modalities with the neurodevelopmental context of the client, and 3) the use of infant mental health and early intervention principles across the lifecycle, regardless of the age of the client.

The Marohn’s focus is in late adolescence and the work of oft quoted theorist Peter Blos. I chose this as it offers a kind of “mini survey” of the literature and for its movement to an emphasis on the nature of the attachment in the adolescent’s world.
As a self psychologist, Marohn relies theoretically on the key concept of “self object” which simply put, refers to the the use of another in the service of one’s sense of cohesion, and this function is experienced as part of oneself…say, a friend’s tranquil presence when we are agitated, maybe all we know is we feel calm.
Winnicott worked extensively with adolescents. Though some fifty years old, I chose this for its phenomenological take on adolescence, (with its flick knives and blue jazz).

ICP Sexual Harassment and Harassment Policy

Harassment of any kind is not acceptable behavior at ICP; it is inconsistent with ICP’s commitment to growth, education and diversity. ICP is committed to creating an environment in which every individual can work, study, and teach without being harassed.

Harassment is any conduct, verbal or physical, that has the intent or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual or group's educational or work performance at ICP or that creates an intimidating, hostile, or offensive educational or work environment. Some kinds of harassment are prohibited by civil laws or by ICP policies on conflict of interest and nondiscrimination.

Harassment on the basis of race, color, sex, disability, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity, veteran's status, or age includes harassment of an individual in terms of a stereotyped group characteristic, or because of that person's identification with a particular group.

Sexual harassment may take many forms. Sexual assault and requests for sexual favors that affect educational or employment decisions constitute sexual harassment. However, sexual harassment may also consist of unwanted physical contact, requests for sexual favors, visual displays of degrading sexual images, sexually suggestive conduct, or offensive remarks of a sexual nature.

The Institute is committed under this policy to stopping harassment and associated retaliatory behavior. Any member of the ICP community who feels harassed is encouraged to seek assistance and resolution of the complaint. ICP provides a variety of avenues by which an individual who feels harassed may proceed, so that each person may choose an avenue appropriate to his or her particular situation. Two recommended avenues are through the ICP Ombudsman’s office and through the student’s advisor. Institute procedures are intended to protect the rights of both complainant and respondent, to protect privacy, and to prevent retaliation.
Appendix XXIII

Non-Discrimination Policy and Procedures

The Institute of Psychoanalysis (ICP) does not and shall not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion (creed), gender, gender expression, age, national origin (ancestry), disability, marital status, sexual orientation, or military status, in any of its activities or operations. These activities include, but are not limited to, hiring and firing of staff, selection of volunteers and vendors, and provision of services. We are committed to providing an inclusive and welcoming environment for all members of our staff, clients, volunteers, subcontractors, vendors, and clients and will not tolerate discrimination.

The Institute of Psychoanalysis is an equal opportunity employer. We will not discriminate and will take affirmative action measures to ensure against discrimination in employment, recruitment, advertisements for employment, compensation, termination, upgrading, promotions, and other conditions of employment against any employee or job applicant on the bases of race, color, gender, national origin, age, religion, creed, disability, veteran's status, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression.

Any employee, board member, volunteer or client who believes that s/he or any other affiliate of the Institute of Psychoanalysis has been discriminated against is strongly encouraged to report this concern promptly to the President(s) of ICP. Discriminatory harassment or intimidation of staff, clients, volunteers, subcontractors, vendors, and clients, in any of its activities or operations is specifically prohibited and may be grounds for termination. Harassment and intimidation includes abusive, foul or threatening language or behavior. Issues of discriminatory treatment, harassment, or intimidation on any of these bases should immediately be reported to the President(s) or Ombudsman's office and if substantiated prompt action will be taken.
