CASE CONFERENCE
Integrating the Findings of Infant Research into Psychoanalytic Treatment of Adults

Instructors: Susan Mendenhall and Helen Ziskind

Course Description:

Both micro-analytic infant research and attachment research have had a profound impact on our ways of working psychoanalytically with our adult patients. This course will focus specifically on the ways the findings of micro-analytic infant research can influence and enhance our clinical work. Recent articles by authors who are exploring this terrain will be used as a basis for discussion of cases.

Harrison, A. and Tronick, E. (2007) "Contributions to Understanding Therapeutic Change: Now We have a Playground" Japa 51 p 221-256

